Whole Department Called to Battle Flames

Fiercest fire in recent Edmonton history is shown at its height early this morning as firemen struggle desperately to prevent blaze from spreading to upper floors of Northern Hardware building, 104 street and 102 avenue. Starting at 11:45 last night, fire defied efforts of entire Edmonton fire department all night. Still burning at press-time, blaze enveloped top three storeys of six-storey structure. Damage is expected to exceed $1,000,000.

Loss Over $3 Million In 104 Street Blaze

6-Storey Building Is Still Smoking

Smoke still billowed from the burning six-storey Northern Hardware Building at 104 street and 102 avenue today as weary firemen battled grimly against a blaze likely to cause more than $3,000,000 damage.

Huge crowds of sightseers during the noon hour were being kept back by wooden barriers.

LIVE AMMUNITION

It is known that live ammunition in considerable quantity is stored in the building but no one at the scene of the fire seemed to know just where.

Fire had burned out on the fourth floor but was blazing fiercely on the fifth and sixth floors. Firemen could not predict when the flames would be completely extinguished.

Fire is believed to have started in a packing room of Gault's Alberta Ltd. on the fourth floor. The cause has not been ascertained.

SINGLE LOSS $500,000

Chief sufferer was Gaults Alberta Ltd., a wholesale dry goods firm which occupied the fourth and fifth floors. Dale Delaney, company assistant manager said today that the stock, valued at $500,000 was a total loss. Destroyed, he said, were 3,000 different items including furniture, textiles and linoleums. The goods were insured.

The fire marked the second big blaze in the building, the first occuring 20 years ago when fire almost levelled the whole interior of the structure.

It was formerly known as the Revilon building.

Top floor of the six-storey steel and concrete structure is occupied by Storey and Campbell Leather Goods and Dominion Textile Company. Damage suffered by these firms has not yet been determined. All the premises were storage warehouses.

Water which was poured into the building at more than 2,000 gallons a minute by four booster pumps and 12 lines of hose, caused extensive damage to lower floors. Reaching a depth of four inches in some spots, the water set waste-paper baskets and chairs afloat.

In the basement, it was 18 inches deep.

FIREMEN HAMPERED

Dense clouds of smoke forced many of the firefighters to don masks and they were further hampered by ice on the ladders and rungs and clothing as the flying spray quickly froze in last night's zero temperature.

Fire alarm was turned in by police constable Cliff Jones, who spotted the initial blaze in the southeast corner of the fourth floor. A short time later a general alarm was turned in.

Edmonton branch of the world-famous firm of Dun and Bradstreet, situated immediately below the main point of the fire, is expected to suffer heaviest water damage. Filing cases and desks, containing extensive company records, were drenched by the torrents which cascaded down stairways and elevator shafts.

About 30 Edmonton business firms have offices and warehouse space in the structure. Building was

Family Loses Home by Fire Third Time

By BARBARA ABBOTT

A raging fire gutted the home of a West Jasper Place family today.

While all fire-fighting equipment was concentrated on the blazing Northern Hardware building in the heart of downtown Edmonton a man and wife were struggling to save their five-room dwelling at 15307 98 Avenue.

NO FIRE EQUIPMENT

He described how repeated efforts to obtain help in fighting the fire today were unsuccessful. "I guess everything was out," he said. "They told me at the Fire Department that there was nothing to send."

For 29-year-old Adolf Rasber and his wife Ruth, this is the third time within two years they have been made homeless by fire.

This afternoon only a few scorched pieces of furniture and a smouldering pile of rubble is all that remains of their home.

BABY RESCUED

Their two-year-old daughter Esther was rescued by her father.

"This," said Rasber, a chicken rancher," is about the end. I can now understand why people feel like committing suicide."

He told a story of three years of appalling misfortune.

He lost everything including furniture and clothing in the first fire that wiped out his uninsured Westlock home. Six months later, his second house was burned to the ground.

BURNED UNDER TRUCK

In July, 1948, he was seriously burned when pinned under an overturned lumber truck near Starky's mine. He still limps as a result of injuries.

Three months ago he bought the house that was destroyed today.

"I thought things were at last going all right," he told a Bulletin reporter. "Then two weeks ago I chopped off my left thumb, while cutting wood."

With eyebrows singed and his arms blackened Rasber made a pathetic figure.

Mrs. Rasber is still attempting to salvage something from the remains of her home.

Her little girl has been taken to relatives at Arville. And Mr. Rasber is already preparing to convert a nearby food-storage shed into living accommodation.

WORN AND BLACKENED by this morning's fight to save his blazing home on the outskirts of the city is Adolf Rasber. This is the third time he has been made homeless by fire. He limps from serious leg burns received in a trucking accident last summer and is now recovering from the loss of a thumb two weeks ago. —Photo by Sullivan

'Mac' Hotel Extension Gets Okay

Go-Ahead Order Is Given to CNR On Big Addition

By DICK JACKSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, March 9.—Transport Minister Chevrier today gave the "go-ahead" order to the Canadian National Railways on construction of the $4,000,000 addition of 380 rooms to the Hotel Macdonald, it was established this morning at the office of mines minister MacKinnon.

The Justice Department—working on a legal opinion sought by cabinet for some weeks—came up with the answer that the CNR could make the expenditure even before it reached the house of commons for approval.

The expenditure is contained in the CNR estimates which will be taken before the commons by transport minister Chevrier later this session.

"This means the absolute green light for the Edmonton job," a cabinet source informed the Bulletin.

DUKE FINDS TRAIN IS SIX DRINKS LATE

LONDON, March 9.—(CP)—As the night train to London was 20 minutes late, the Duke of Edinburgh and Edinburgh's Lord Provost had "one for the road."

Twenty minutes later the train was still late. So they had another.

"Eventually," the Duke told his after-dinner listeners, "we decided the train was six drinks late. When we reached London I am sure many citizens were surprised to see the Lord Provost and myself on such extremely good terms."

10 Feet Added To Oil Strata At Schoepp

Pay zone of Canada's thickest oil bearing strata was increased another 10 feet yesterday.

Drillstem test of the interval from 5,513 to 5,523 feet at Schoepp No. 1 failed to reveal the underlying water layer for which the well has been searching for more than two weeks.

HEAVY GAS FLOW

The test recovered an immediate gas blow at the rate of 305,000 cubic feet per day. Oil flowed to the surface and 2,370 feet were recovered in the drill pipe.

The well has since been deepened by coring to the 5,533 feet level.

The oil bearing zone has now been proven to be 16 feet thicker than that of the Redwater field which set a record last fall when a thickness of 146 feet was established in the discovery well, Imperial Redwater No. 1.

HINT OF DEPTH

Possible extent of the Schoepp discovery may be indicated in an unconfirmed report this morning from the Midland Petroleums No. 1 well, six miles north, of nine feet of porosity and oil staining obtained while coring at below the 5,105 feet level.

Baseball Sued For Large Sum

NEW YORK, March. 9.—(AP)—Max Lanier and Fred Martin, who once hitched for St. Louis Cardinals, sued organized baseball for damages totalling $2,500,000 yesterday in an effort to break the five-year suspensions imposed on them for jumping to the Mexican league.

They also obtained a federal court order directing organized baseball to show cause March 15 why it should not be temporarily restrained from barring them and from demanding that players sign contracts containing "either a reserve or a termination clause."

The reserve clause—often called the backbone of professional baseball—was attacked as a violation of the anti-trust laws in the suits filed in federal court here by John L. Flynn, New York lawyer.

Named as defendants were A. B. (Happy) Chandler, baseball commissioner; Ford C. Frick, president of the National League; William Harridge, president of the American League; George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Minor Leagues, and all 16 major league clubs.

Seeking triple damages under the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws, Lanier sought $1,500,000 and Martin $1,000,000.

Quake Rocks California

SAN FRANCISCO, March 9.—(BUP)—A sharp earthquake, apparently centered near Santa Cruz, shook a 200-mile section of the California coastline, including San Francisco, at 2.20 a.m. Edmonton time today.

The quake caused some damage at Hollister, Calif., breaking plate glass windows and turning over piled canned goods in grocery stores.

Hollister, which is 95 miles south of San Francisco is located atop the "San Andres Fault," which has been responsible for previous earthquakes.

The tremblors were felt as far east as Stockton, 80 miles inland.

Downtown streets here were crowded with the curious residents after the shocks but there was no panic.

'Spiel Leaders Still Favored

HAMILTON, March 9.—(CP)—Crowds streamed into the Thistle club today nearly an hour before the Dominion's top curlers started fifth-round play in the round-robin Canadian curling championships.

The 'spiel has captured the imagination of this sports-loving city and tickets are at a minimum for the tournament which ends Thursday night.

Manitoba and British Columbia, deadlocked in first place with four victories each, were confident of "cinches" to keep their unbeaten string intact. Manitoba met Nova Scotia, which has won two of its four matches, and the British Columbians met Prince Edward Island, also with a won-two-lost-two record.

Other games brought together Alberta and Quebec, Saskatchewan and New Brunswick and Ontario's quartet from Chatham against Northern Ontario.

The sixth round of the tournament is scheduled for 6 p.m. (MST) tonight.

Last Obstacle Lifted For Federal Building

Last obstacle to placing the federal building on the market square was removed yesterday afternoon.

Town Planning Commission, without a dissenting vote, authorized rezoning of a sufficient area on the market square from park to general business district to permit erection of the structure.

The rezoning request came before the commission through a resolution of city council in which the commission was requested to consider the rezoning of the property.

BACK FROM STREET

The commission's resolution carried the ridge that the building be recessed by 50 feet from street line.

Mayor Harry Ainlay and City Commissioner D. B. Menzies appeared before the commission in support of the rezoning proposal.

Both intimated to the commission the placing of the federal building on the market square rested on the members' decision to change the zone.

If the zone change is not made the federal building will be placed on its original site on 103 avenue on the west side of the civic centre, they informed commission members.

SEEK MARKET SITE

Commission members asked Mayor Ainlay concerning plans for a new market building, and were informed the commissioners were seeking a site for this structure.

Ralph V. Bellamy, commission member, expressed the view that the profusion of merchandising stalls in a market building should be discontinued.

Mayor Ainlay said commissioners also were of the opinion the market should be restricted to sales direct from producer to consumer.

Flyers Whip Calgary 3-2 In Opener of Semi-Finals

By Stan Moher
Bulletin Sports Editor

'Handy Andy' Clovechok, top goal-sniper during the regular run, failed to come up with a counter. The same went for Alec Pringle, another flanker who consistently filled enemy nets through most of the season.

But Bill Maher was good for a marker and as though to take up some of the slack resulting from the Clovechok-Pringle shortcomings defencemen Doug Lane and Gordon Watt each hit paydirt. Result was that Edmonton Flyers, on the strength of these three payoff drives, edged Calgary Stampeders 3-2 at the Arena last night in the lid-lifter of a best-of-five Western Canada Hockey League semi-final.

A jam-packed house gave Flyers a great send-off as they pooled collective noses down the play-off trail in defence of the Allan cup they won last season.

MAHER STARTS IT

Maher staked the locals to a 1-0 lead late in the first period and, with Keith Woodall going in tenacious style in the nets, they never fell behind over the rest of the route. On two occasions the fighting Stampeders drew level. But Watt pulled the handle for the jackpot at 13.32 of the last period to make it 3-2 for Flyers and this time the Cowboys failed to reply.

DEVICQ, SCOTT FOR STAMPS

Stan Devicq, onetime Flyer, and Archie Scott, late of Trail and other mountain points, tallied for Calgary.

Many Are Hit By U.S. Floods

A new flood threat developed in Montana, and rising waters plagued many areas of Nebraska, still reeling after a winter-long bout with weather's elements.

Surging waters from swollen streams spilled over thousands of acres of land in Nebraska, Iowa, Montana and Louisiana. But colder weather in many parts of the mid-western states checked some of the overflow.

The Missouri river was generally below flood stage over its course through eight states from northern Montana to southern Illinois. But many of the big river's tributaries were on a mild rampage.

Law-Fraud Fund Asked In B.C.

VICTORIA, B.C., March 9.—(CP)—A measure to force the British Columbia Law Society to set up a $100,000 anti-fraud fund is before the legislature.

If approved, the bill would protect those who legitimately claim to have been defrauded by lawyers. Restitution would be made up to $5,000.

Presenting the bill, Attorney-General Gordon Wismer said the fund will be established by assessing all lawyers practising in the province $5 a year. The assessment would continue until $100,000 is realized.

The policy statement requested immediate implementation of the recommendation of the 1947 parliamentary committee on radio that Canadians be permitted to engage in and develop new radio and television techniques as quickly as possible.

DRILLING APPLICATION MADE

Oil Derricks May Sprout Within City

Oil derricks may sprout throughout the city of Edmonton in the near future.

First application for permission to explore, test and drill for oil within the city limits has been made to city council.

It has been filed by James E. McGregor, 10136 103 avenue, manager Capitol Service Station.

He seeks rezoning of a quarter section of land within the city limits from agricultural to a classification that will permit the exploitation of the property.

The land is located north of 91 avenue between 142 and 149 streets. The property is not subdivided.

Legal description of the property is N.E. quarter of section 36, township 52, range 25, west of the fourth meridian.

McGregor's request will be submitted to city council Monday night next.

To date council has not set any policy regarding exploration for oil within the city limits.

However, conversations are proceeding between civic officials on ways and means of consolidating civic-held mineral rights, and to determine policy as to their development.

Officials stated that many more applications for permission to explore for oil within the city limits will be made to city council.

New Cabinet Shift Made by Russians

Cold War Campaign In Mediterranean Hinted Too

LONDON, March 9.—(BUP)—Moscow announced Russia's third cabinet change within a week today amid first indications that a possible Soviet cold war spring campaign may be starting in the eastern Mediterranean.

Reports from Istanbul said the Soviet cabinet shift was accompanied by a demand that Turkey outline its attitude on the Atlantic pact or a subsidiary Mediterranean agreement, for the information of the Soviet government.

WAR OF NERVES

At the same time little Albania, undoubtedly with Moscow's backing, began a war of nerves against Marshal Tito with a call to Yugoslavs to revolt and "free the nation from the treacherous Tito gang."

The latest Soviet government shift brought Russia's top industrial expert, Alexander I. Yefremov, into the cabinet headed by Premier Josef Stalin. The addition increased the Soviet cabinet from 13 to 14 members, including Stalin.

Yefremov was relieved of his duties as minister of the machine tool industry and replaced in that capacity by a comparative unknown, Anatoli I. Kostomov.

DEPUTY PREMIER

The shift made Yefremov a deputy member of the council of ministers or, in western terminology, a deputy premier.

The latter post, Yefremov's promotion appeared to follow the pattern of freeing top executives from the administrative routine for the more important work of charting cabinet policy.

Two recent such changes were the release of V. M. Molotov from the duties of foreign minister and A. I. Mikoyan from the duties of foreign trade minister.

Other Big Blazes Of Recent Years

Last night's fire resulted in the biggest loss suffered here in ever 5 years.

Last blaze which caused damages estimated as high as a million dollars broke out in the four-storey MacCoubrey Warehouse on June 6, 1946.

That fire started in the early evening and gutted the top two storeys of the concrete building on 103b street and 104 avenue before it was brought under control several hours later. Water damage was also heavy in that fire.

Fire swept through the United Grain Growers elevator at 102 street and Kinsmen park in the early hours of April 16, 1945. Damage reached $100,000.

Probably the most spectacular blaze in recent years gutted a hangar at the former American Base on May 5, 1946.

Two RCAF Norseman planes stored in the hangar were lost in the big blaze and damage amounted to more than a half million dollars.

Other big fires in last two years were the blaze at Western Grocers' warehouse at 10053b 103 street on July 5, 1947, and at Royal Hotel, 102 avenue and 97 street, on Feb. 27, 1947.

King George to Face Operation Very Soon

LONDON, March 9.—(CP)—The King will undergo an operation soon in the hope of improving the blood flow to his right leg, Buckingham Palace said last night.

This was the first official word that His Majesty would undergo surgical treatment since the announcement 34½ months ago that he was suffering from an arterial ailment of the legs.

KNOWN 25 YEARS

The operation, not a common one, is known as lumbar sympathectomy. It has been performed in dealing with stoppages of the arteries for about 25 years.

A Palace bulletin said the operation will be "at an early date." The Press Association's court correspondent said he understood it will take place during the next week.

The operation consists of making a small incision in the right lumbar region—the loins—to cut the nerve controlling the blood supply to the foot. This results in a dilation of the blood channels and a freer flow of blood.

OUT HALF AN HOUR

Medical authorities said in most cases the patient is under anaesthesia for a half hour or less.

The bulletin did not say where the operation would be performed, but the Press Association correspondent said there seems no reason why the doctors should not operate on the King at Buckingham Palace."

Court correspondents were told the operation is not regarded as serious and the decision to perform it does not indicate any sudden development in the King's condition.

The technical name for the King's ailment is thrombo-angiitis obliterans. This produces a progressive tightening of the arteries due to inflammation.

In severe cases the legs lose their feeling and the patient is unable to walk. In lighter cases only small distances can be walked in comfort.

The King, who is 53, is in good general health otherwise, said the doctors.

Winner of the festival will represent Alberta at the Dominion drama festival in Toronto April 25 to 30.

Lacombe Farmer Marries Childhood Scottish Love

HALIFAX, March 9.—(CP)—A 76-year-old bridegroom of two months wistfully wondered yesterday why people can't mind their own business, especially when it comes to other people's honeymoons.

John Russell and his wife Marion H., arrived here on the Empress of Canada from Liverpool. Childhood sweethearts in their native Scotland, they went home, John and Marion were separated when he sailed for the United States 48 years ago.

In 1947 he went home for a brief visit. He met Marion on that occasion and on this one, married her in January.

They will live on Russell's farm near Lacombe, Alta., where there.

Mrs. Russell is making her first trip to Canada. She thinks her marriage "is pretty wonderful."

"Would you like to see my husband?" she asked and bounded through the door in search of him.

Mr. Russell didn't regard questioners with much favor. He realized they weren't trying to be nosey, but there was nothing unusual about people getting married.

Both were surprised and a little disgruntled to discover they had been expected.

Everyone was asking questions over there," said Mr. Russell. "I was hoping it wouldn't start all over again."

Someone asked a bow-tied-b-all-happy, question. Mr. Russell said: "Came to the United States 40 years ago . . . up to Canada in 1907 . . . back home again . . . back again, and got married, that's all."

The Russells left for their western home last night. They said they intend to keep a sharp eye out for more questioners. Mr. Russell drew the line at pictures and two photographers politely were given the gate.

Mrs. Russell answered one question and was asked a second. "Oh!" she said in hushed helplessness, "I told you not to start answering questions. But got more."

Girl Found Hacking Off Legs With Knife

TORONTO, March 8.—(CP) — Member of an east-end religious sect, Pearl Pollachuk, pretty 22-year-old brunette, was found early hacking off her legs above the knee with a saw-another broad knife. A mother broke into her room when he heard her moans and groans.

The woman, a knitting mill worker lectured to here from Big River, Sask., is described by mothers as a religious fanatic.

ONE LEG AMPUTATED

One of her legs was amputated in hospital and she has had several blood transfusions. Authorities described her condition as "poor."

Herbert Thelin, a tenant in the three-storey home where she lived, said he first got covered with blood and shouting: "Dear Lord, I am coming." She was sitting on the floor with the sharp-bottled knife in her right hand. Both her legs had been cut deeply above the knee and she was making another wound when he arrived.

Jos. B. Z. S. Russell, pastor and founder of the Onward Mission, told reporters he was certain Miss Pollachuk would not attempt suicide by religious reasons because she was "too well-founded a girl."

"NO OTHER SIDE"

Her landlady said a few weeks ago the girl declared she "would give anything on this earth for what is above."

Missing Girl's Photo Circulated

TORONTO, March 8.—(CP)—Police today issued 1,500 circulars bearing a picture of Mary Elizabeth Walsh, 15-year-old Jarvis Collegiate school girl, missing from her home here since last Tuesday. The circulars will cover Canada and the United States.

Joseph Moskalczyk, part owner of the knitting mill where Miss Pollachuk worked for five years, said she became a "religious fanatic" and talked of going to "the other side" only after she joined the church about a year ago.

"Before that she was always one to go dancing and have a good time," he said. "She was very fond of sports and she was a nice, pleasant girl."

BRASS BANDS were just part of carnival capers pulled by U of A student candidates in the current campus election campaign. Barefoot dancing girls, neon signs, 75-foot banners, and airplanes dropping leaflets were used to advertise election candidates. EAC Hockey Chief Blasts Junior League

As an aftermath to the junior hockey league donnybrook at the Arena Monday night, resulting in an indefinite suspension to EAC coach Eddie Cutts late yesterday afternoon, Leo LeClerc, EAC hockey director, levelled charges of incompetence against the junior league administration last night.

"While Cutts' suspension may have been called for," LeClerc said in a statement to the Bulletin, "events leading up to the blow-off were not of his doing."

BLAMES REFEREES

"It has been building up all year," he added. "We are firmly convinced that regular junior league referees all along have had chips on their shoulders as far as EAC's are concerned.

Cutts' suspension, for allowing his players on the bench to take part in Monday's free-swinging melee, was announced by junior league director Gordon Self, following an executive conference.

Self advised that after studying the report of referees Cam Smith and Bob Haxby, the group unanimously decided to slap the indefinite suspension of Cutts.

PLAYERS WARNED

And Self and associates issued a stern warning to players, too. "Any player leaving the players' box in future to take part in a free-for-all will be subject to a match - misconduct penalty and other disciplinary action," Self promised.

In his blast against junior league administration LeClerc claimed that as a result of referees not handling the game properly, Cutts had gotten it in the neck.

"Reason we are bringing this up," LeClerc added, "is to further strengthen our arguments concerning incompetency of the junior league administration in hiring incompetent officials," he barked.

LeClerc also is of the opinion that the junior league executive is operating in a manner suited more to a junior B. or a juvenile. loop. He pointed out that fans taking in the Monday game were forced to stand in long ticket lines to secure ducats at only one wicket.

Stan Ward, president of the Maple Leaf Athletic Club, answering EAC charges of mismanagement of the Junior League, agreed that it was "a mess," but charged that the mess is EAC's fault.

He said he believes they have been treating the EAC too leniently and that the suspension of Ernie Cutts for Monday night's game was inaedquate punishment.

If the junior league administration doesn't do something soon, he said, the Maple Leaf organization will call on the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association or the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association to step in and take charge.

Varsity Elections Put Phogbound in Shade

A hectic week of handbills, speeches, and brass bands ended yesterday, and the dignified University of Alberta campus has returned to normal.

Climaxing a week of the hottest and most colorful electioneering in years, students running for offices in the Students' Union election relaxed today to see how much good their blaring did them with the voters.

Since nominations closed last Wednesday, there has been a steady stream of high-pressure advertising on the campus by candidates running in the annual student elections which are being held today.

Most of the campaigning has been done by the four candidates entered in the race for president of the Students' Union.

Marching brass bands, costumed jokesters, thousands of signs and posters, barefoot dancing girls, and other events have been staged to sway the 4,000 voting students.

It was rumored one candidate was prepared to spend $500 to get the Union president's job.

Another rumor had it that a city advertising agency was hired to run one presidential candidate's campaign.

All candidates assured The Bulletin and their fellow students it was "proposterous" anyone would spend that much money in what is usually a quiet election campaign.

Robertson United Gets Noted East Organist

Richard J. Carroll, distinguished musician in eastern and Winnipeg music circles, has arrived in Edmonton following his appointment as organist of Robertson United Church.

Mr. Carroll has just arrived from Winnipeg, where he was conductor of the University of Manitoba Choral Society. He came to Winnipeg as music master at St. John's College, but he served also as organist at St. George's Church in Winnipeg.

TORONTO CONSERVATORY

Born in southern Ontario, Mr. Carroll received his musical training at the Toronto Conservatory of Music under such eminent instructors as Alberto Guerrero and Sir Ernest MacMillan.

While in Toronto, Mr. Carroll taught at Moulton College and at the Hambourg Conservatory of Music. He was chorus master and assistant conductor with the National Opera Company, and has directed music for the Canadian Drama League and the Toronto Village Players.

He has also done some arranging and original work for the CBC.

SAW WAR SERVICE

Prior to the war Mr. Carroll was supervisor of music in Ontario Public and high schools. He served during the war with the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals.

This is Mr. Carroll's first visit to Edmonton and he says he likes it already. He feels there is a great deal of talent in the west.

He succeeds Professor John Reymes-King as organist at Robertson United Church.

Oil Board Hears Plans For Control

The Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board was given two conflicting views today on how to work out a conservation scheme for the Redwater oil field.

One group of expert witnesses representing interested companies advocated a flat allowable for all wells in the field, while a second group contended that the wells should be allowed to produce in proportion to the thickness of pay zone which they have.

Dr. Govier, board member, failed to get support from either group for a compromise suggestion, that the allowable be a flat rate plus a bonus, proportionate to the amount of pay zone.

Since the pay zone is five times as thick in some parts as others, the stakes are big.

James Lowery, president of Home Oil, and Grant Spratt, managing director of Anglo Canadian, suggested all interested operators be asked to get together and work out a production scheme satisfactory to all.

Canadian Women Find Ally in Clothes Battle

A continent-hopping British travelling salesman in Edmonton fired a volley of words today in the current battle

N. H. Beecroft, representative of Thexton and Wright, London, Eng., wool merchants, allied himself with the women and aimed his ammunition at Canadian men who, as wives have frequently claimed, show little individuality in selection of clothes.

POWER PACT

Here to sell men's topcoats and sports jackets to Edmonton retailers, he formed an immediate power pact with Edmonton women when he said local men have but one fashion aim—to dress alike.

Women, he implied, would never let such a thing happen to them.

"A Canadian man sees several of his friends in dark, conservative suits—and decides that is just the kind of garment he wants for himself," the Britisher said.

ENGLAND DIFFERENT

"Now, in England, it's different. An Englishman sees several of his friends in dark, conservative suits—and decides that is just the kind of garment he doesn't want.

"He has the courage to back his choice, too. He selects what he fancies, and he wears it defiantly."

Here, Mr. Beecroft added a footnote which may redeem him in the eyes of Canadian men:

"There's just one drawback in the Englishman's flair for individuality in his clothes—sometimes his choice is not successful; sometimes it's beastly unsuccessful!"

Mercy Flight En Route To City

A mercy flight carrying an injured Indian is winging its way towards Edmonton today from Chipewyan Lake, according to RCAF officials at NWAC headquarters here.

The plane, a Norseman piloted by FO. Jack Elviss of 11820 96 street, left Edmonton airport yesterday bound for Chipewyan Lake where it was to pick up the injured man. It is expected to return here at 3 p.m. today.

The Indian is reported to be suffering from a gun wound resulting from an accidental shooting some time ago.

Dr. J. P. Harvey, of Dr. Charles Camsell hospital here, accompanied the plane on the mercy flight.

Chipewyan Lake is about 225 air miles northeast of Edmonton, but the flight is taking longer than usual because the plane has to be converted to skis.

Dr. G. E. Swallow presenting his medical report to the meeting said a new type of scalp ringworm had been discovered in a number of school children, but the disease would not be serious unless it reached epidemic proportions.

Board approved his recommendation calling for an immediate inspection of students in an effort to check the spread of the disease.

678 EXAMS

Last month the medical department made 678 complete physical examinations of Edmonton school children, 116 medical inspections and 54 special inspections.

Drivers' Tests Now

Drivers' tests should be imposed upon everyone who operates a motor vehicle in Alberta, not merely upon new applicants for licenses and upon those who are convicted of traffic offences.

Failure to make this recommendation applicable to every driver is the chief weakness in the report made by a legislative committee which has been looking into government automobile insurance.

Some of the other suggestions made by this committee are admirable.

For instance, the proposal that two traffic convictions should deprive the offender of his license for the balance of the license year is not too harsh.

The proposal with regard to permanent license plates would effect a considerable economy. Great Britain gets along with permanent plates with no obvious difficulty.

The conclusion, too, that the attainment of a great measure of traffic safety would automatically reduce automobile insurance rates in the province and thus render government insurance unnecessary seems to be logical and reasonable.

But the essence of the report lies in its reference to compulsory drivers' tests. And in this it does not go nearly far enough.

If equipment is set up to test new applicants and persons convicted of traffic offences, there is no reason on earth why that equipment should not be used for everybody immediately and not at some future time.

For some of those drivers who are the most prolific causes of accidents never find their way into traffic courts at all.

Every driver should be tested now because universal drivers' tests are shown by experience to afford the greatest single check on traffic accidents.

In British Columbia, the institution of such tests was followed by an immediate reduction in accidents by 38 per cent. Practically the same result was attained in Manitoba.

Nothing is to be gained by failing to make the obligation universal right from the outset.

Situation Well Handled

The Edmonton public school board merits congratulations on its handling of an unfortunate incident in Westmount school that could easily have been thumped up into a minor scandal.

The facts are that a 15-year-old pupil was sentenced to the strap for a breach of discipline and refused to receive his punishment.

Some sort of a scuffle ensued during which other pupils got the impression that the boy was receiving drastic treatment and a number of them walked out of the school.

Now such a situation is full of dynamite because undue severity on the part of the teachers is almost as reprehensible as a collapse of discipline.

The school board acted promptly and next morning investigated the affair with scrupulous thoroughness.

The parents of the boy who was punished co-operated with commendable public spirit and every effort was made by the board to have them understand all the circumstances of the case.

The result of the school board's sympathetic and intelligent dealing with this incident are these:

1. The teachers were made to understand that the board would tolerate no act of severity that might indicate that they were exceeding their statutory authority.

2. Discipline was maintained.

3. The parents of the punished boy were satisfied that justice had been done.

4. Other pupils were convinced that nothing outrageous had occurred.

It was something of a masterpiece of administrative diplomacy and everybody emerged from an awkward situation with varying degrees of credit.

Trust Fund From Resources

The demand of Liberal Leader Harper Prowse for the establishment of a trust fund to contain proceeds from Alberta's share of the development of natural resources cannot be dismissed as a mere opposition attempt to embarrass the government.

Mr. Prowse anticipates an average annual income from resources of some $20,000,000 over a period of 25 years. This he would incorporate into a trust from which municipalities, cities, school districts, hospital districts and the provincial government itself could borrow for essential public works.

It must be admitted, of course, that Mr. Prowse feels a very natural apprehension, as a party leader, that if the proceeds from oil and other resources were placed into general funds, the party in power could consolidate its influence with the publicity of huge immediate expenditures on social services and thus make it more difficult for other parties to gain control.

There is doubtless the further apprehension that should revenues from these sources decrease, succeeding governments would be left holding an empty bag.

However, while oil fields are periishable assets, the many new discoveries being made in this general area would seem to make the possibility of an early decrease in such revenues somewhat remote.

Mr. Prowse has made an interesting suggestion.

It should be considered on the basis of the public welfare and entirely apart from its political implications.

Certainly it should not be thrown out peremptorily as nothing more than an effort to jockey for political advantage.

For, after all, the manner in which the provincial government spends its new inheritance is a matter of intimate concern to every person in the province.

It Will Take Some Bureaucracy

The revelation in the house of commons by Anthony Hlynka, M.P. of Vegreville, that the federal income tax branch in Edmonton levied a tax against a man suspected of winning at cards inspires a rather appalling thought.

For if the income tax department is going to snoop around after the big winners, it must, in all justice and equity, snoop around with equal diligence among the small ones.

In other words, every matron who whiles away the afternoons at bridge at the club on a corner must be careful to pull down all the blinds and admit her guests only by card.

If Mr. Hlynka's charge can be substantiated, it means that the personnel in the income tax branch will have to be materially augmented.

It is going to take quite some bureaucracy to wrest from the pocket of every card player a full tax on all his ill-gotten gains.

Mexicans Regard Foreign Business Men As Intruders

MAZATLIN, Mexico.—This is our second-to-last day here in Paradise and we are both suffering with summer colds. Spent the morning shopping for panuelo (handkerchief) and Vick's Vapo-Rub. Try that on a Mexican town and you are in for some high hilarity.

The last two days have been cloudy and cool. At the best of times everything is damp and clammy. The sheets on the bed are hall-dry. The cigarettes go out or come apart at the seams. Bathing trunks never really dry, even when the sun is blazing. The stack of copy paper I put on the small desk is like blotting paper.

A summer cold was the last thing we expected. Some dysentery, yes, since everyone we met in the United States warned us that we'd be ill from the food and water. We spent the early days drinking from bottles of "purified water" and eating at the American style places. One of these is called Con Ynes, owned by a gentleman named Captain Irving, and we had a delectable meal there of filet of wild baby pig and wild lime pie.

Then it began to seem a little ridiculous to let a northern hemisphere drug - store - counter stomach stand between us and sampling the real Mexican food and we just forgot all the advice.

Actually the Mexican food is something of a disappointment. The enchiladas and tamales seem tasteless to us after the ersatz, but far more appetizing, imitations of the Tamale Parlors back home. It is possible to prep up these items with a sauce that is on the table the color of red pepper. When you pour this on your enchiladas there is a thin curl of blue smoke and you are advised to coat the tongue in asbestos.

Out To Sea

This morning, although redbreasted and wheezing, we went fishing with the small, dark gentleman we know as Pedro Lorre. He is the world's perfect guide. Never says a word, yet appears to be enjoying himself. A silent guide is surely a golden find.

We drove across the town to the wharves where there are three small ships of the Mexican navy, each gaily festooned with flags and bunting, lying in the rigging to dry. This is a navy base and there is also a sizable number of "navy" troops in the town. Pedro says that he could vaguely as if they'd been left over from Pancho Villa days.

We set out from the harbor in a small launch with two wicker chairs in the back for marlin-fishers. It was a very Hemingway-ish feeling to be bouncing over the waves seated with a stout fishing pole between the legs, the pelicans flying low overhead and the little launch going out into the ocean swell.

We caught nineteen fish with one exception all mackerel about a foot and a half long and weighing up to five pounds. They might give you a good, short fight with lighter equipment, but the lines and rods we were using took some of the sport out of it. Brown Eyes was catching two for my one, a source of ill-disguised amusement to the skipper and Peter, but I redeemed myself by hooking into a good, rough "yellowtail," a bass about ten pounds.

We trolled by three islands a short distance south of Mazatlan Bay, the centre one of which is owned by Tyrone Power. This was a mass of no interest whatever to Peter, but was a delight to the skipper who kept pointing at it and saying, "Senor Powerful, Senor Powerful." As the islands go, it looked like a poor buy to me—no trees, steep sides and not much of a beach. Probably just an amusing idea at the time.

The fishermen is very Hollywood-conscious, perhaps because so many film stars go to the rival resort of Acapulco.

Some Guests

We were hosts last night in our room to a few of the pleasant people we've met. They are quite a bit like Canadians. Each man brought a bottle of Johnnie Walker Red Label Scotch. Our offering was Four Roses bourbon, which is a favorite in these parts.

Apart from the Mexicans, two of these fellows were Americans and a third Canadian, all of whom are engaged in various enterprises here and so we listened most of the night to tales of bitterness and frustration involving the local government officials.

Even allowing for a margin of exaggeration there appears to be no doubt that the Mexicans resent the outsiders moving in and use all the available laws to make life difficult. Then dream up some new laws.

The Canadian, for example, is building a small, but sturdy, ocean-going yawl for the deep-sea fishing. Although the boat can be handled nicely by three, he's informed that when he has it ready for launching he will be required to have a Mexican crew of eleven and will skipper his own boat only after having in the Mexican government exams in Mexico City.

This Canadian, by the way, is a magnificent type of adventurer and I will be writing more of him later. He is 60. A year ago he married a Mexican girl here at the tender age of 17 and they've been happy together. The only rift came when a lady friend in Canada wrote and concluded her letter with the cheery message, "Adios." Apparently in this country you do not treat such sentiment lightly . . . and she loves here, too, read their husband's mail.

Trust Fund From Resources

The demand of Liberal Leader Harper Prowse for the establishment of a trust fund to contain proceeds from Alberta's share of the development of natural resources cannot be dismissed as a mere opposition attempt to embarrass the government.

Mr. Prowse anticipates an average annual income from resources of some $20,000,000 over a period of 25 years. This he would incorporate into a trust from which municipalities, cities, school districts, hospital districts and the provincial government itself could borrow for essential public works.

It must be admitted, of course, that Mr. Prowse feels a very natural apprehension, as a party leader, that if the proceeds from oil and other resources were placed into general funds, the party in power could consolidate its influence with the publicity of huge immediate expenditures on social services and thus make it more difficult for other parties to gain control.

There is doubtless the further apprehension that should revenues from these sources decrease, succeeding governments would be left holding an empty bag.

However, while oil fields are perishable assets, the many new discoveries being made in this general area would seem to make the possibility of an early decrease in such revenues somewhat remote.

Mr. Prowse has made an interesting suggestion.

It should be considered on the basis of the public welfare and entirely apart from its political implications.

Certainly it should not be thrown out peremptorily as nothing more than an effort to jockey for political advantage.

For, after all, the manner in which the provincial government spends its new inheritance is a matter of intimate concern to every person in the province.

It Will Take Some Bureaucracy

The revelation in the house of commons by Anthony Hlynka, M.P. of Vegreville, that the federal income tax branch in Edmonton levied a tax against a man suspected of winning at cards inspires a rather appalling thought.

For if the income tax department is going to snoop around after the big winners, it must, in all justice and equity, snoop around with equal diligence among the small ones.

In other words, every matron who whiles away the afternoons at bridge at the club on a corner must be careful to pull down all the blinds and admit her guests only by card.

If Mr. Hlynka's charge can be substantiated, it means that the personnel in the income tax branch will have to be materially augmented.

It is going to take quite some bureaucracy to wrest from the pocket of every card player a full tax on all his ill-gotten gains.

Letters to the Editor

Religious Freedom

Editor, Bulletin.—May I have the privilege of replying to my critics?

I based my letter on facts, and facts are stubborn things, not to be obliterated by abuse.

Of the many fine people who 'phoned to thank me for my letter, two were from Central Europe, who said I spoke truly about conditions there, before the present government took over, one of them saying that any government would be an improvement on those which kept them in serfdom to the nobles under the Church, for so long.

Evidently the Hungarian people thought so, and it is entirely their business. Nobody seemed to bother much about religious persecution in Russia, which a Czechoslovak found to be on the receiving end.

To "Convert" who speaks of intolerance in others, but sees nothing wrong in the imprisonment of certain religious workers, who thought that what he calls scurrilous literature against his religion: I would remind him and others that freedom means the right to criticize. There is a law against libel in Canada which would quickly bring these people into court if they made untrue statements. I think if I were "Convert" I should want to know why the law had not been invoked.

Mrs. Hall tells me that Catholics have been persecuted. She has her facts badly twisted. I can find no record of any persecution of Catholics in western times, but there are people dying for their faith, sometimes rather horribly in Spain today.

I believe strongly in freedom of religion for everybody everywhere but there is a great deal of difference between freedom of worship and freedom of a totalitarian organization posing under the name of Christianity, to wage a fight against Christianity.

I should like to take this opportunity to thank the Edmonton Bulletin gratefully, for allowing a discussion of matters in its columns. Only in this way can the air be cleared and democracy built its own.

Small Type Politicians

Editor, Bulletin.—If I hate anybody I hate small politicians. Calling Mrs. Roosevelt a Communist is not only funny but silly and it takes such a man as Mr. Aaley to use such language. In his small mind every progressive man or woman including Gandhi are Communist, Socialist or Zionist.

Mr. Aaley's loose tongue has brought him much misfortune. Our great province has given one of the biggest honors by appointing him as minister of Education but his loose tongue knocked him out of that position.

Mr. Aaley forgot that he himself was elected on borrowed leave from Karl Marx's book. In 1935 all the so-called Social Crediters were very radical. Some of them were so radical that they were sent to jail. Stealing the election in 1935 by radical promises, Mr. Aaley, turned right against the people he finally had to give in to the strong talk of the late Mr. Aberhart.

I respect Mr. Aaley because he realizes that he can't do very much with his radical ideas and tried, therefore, to give us good government.

Looking back on Mr. Aaley's talks which raised him up and down again, I think he should be seen but not heard.

Save The Children

Editor, Bulletin.—The Edmonton Committee of the Canadian Save The Children Fund express their gratitude and appreciation for the very valuable free publicity given by the press and the radio stations to the Canadian Save The Children Fund Campaign.

They would also like to thank the management of the Capitol theatre for the generous use of all those who so generously contributed of their time and effort toward the success of the opening concert on Feb. 6th.

The Committee expresses sincere thanks to the organizations which staffed the booth in the Hudson's Bay store and to all individuals and organizations for their generous and generous response to the appeal for funds and clothing for the unfortunate children in the devasted countries of Europe.

The generous contributions will add in no small measure to the comfort and joy of many European children in the coming year.

Trivia

Britain's working population, sharply reduced in the first postwar year, increased steadily throughout 1948. Statistics issued by the Ministry of Labor show that by the end of November it had risen to 20.4 millions—some 900,000 above the mid-1939 level. Most of the increase is due to the large numbers of women entering employment and, in fact, offsetting the decline in the number of male workers throughout the year. At the same time, unemployment remains at record low level, some 327,000 registered unemployed at the beginning of December representa only 1% of the total insurable population.

Sour Milk For Breakfast

Editor, Bulletin.—I have no doubt our milk route men are enjoying their restful Sundays, with breakfast in bed, etc. How lovely for them, unless, of course, the budget has been impaired!

But, I say, what is the matter with pasteurized and homogenized milk kept on ice from the moment of purchase, which forty-eight hours later is always sour.

What becomes of Saturday's milkings? I suppose we receive it on Monday, Sunday on Tuesday, etc., with Thursday and Friday's milkings delivered to us on Saturday, as most people have only double quantity on Saturday to carry over the no-delivery Sunday.

Two-day-old milk is certainly not first grade milk, surely. Do you think we should be paying 18c a quart for it?

It's getting to be a problem, really.

Maybe if someone could devise an acceptable theory why we are thrilled to bring in the breakfast, and like it, it might help.

Producers Of Poultry

Editor, Bulletin.—As you are no doubt aware, the sixth annual meeting of the Alberta Poultry Improvement Association will be held on February 23rd and 24th, 1949. During the course of these sessions, it occasions a pleasure to the press, certain items of publicity which it was considered, would be of interest and information to the readers at large and to our 30,000 members in particular.

It is our pleasure at this time to express to you and to the members of your reporting staff, the deep appreciation of the writer concerned, for the coverage rendered by your publication in this event. It was further the expressed wish of the delegates in attendance, that we communicate to you their cognizance of the article and accompanying photograph in which your reports were prepared.

Your assistance in matters of this kind, greatly facilitates the work this organization is undertaking on behalf of the producing population in the province of Alberta.

Today's Text

Wherefore comfort one another with these words . . . —I Thessalonians 4.18.

From Today's News

By Dewitt Mackenzie

Among the major security tasks of the Western allies is that of providing a fool-proof defence against any such submarine menace as that with which the Germans all but defeated them in two world wars.

One of Britain's foremost newspapers, the Manchester Guardian, calls attention to this in connection with the current debate on British naval estimates in the House of Commons. The Guardian points to two vital defence problems.

1. To see that all reasonable steps are taken to ensure that the sea lanes between North America and Western Europe, and between North America and the Near East, can't be cut.

2. To make sure that the Royal Navy and the United States navy are kept strong enough, and that neither will find itself engaged in major sea warfare without the other at its side.

The value of any partnership between the United States and Europe, of course, hinges heavily on their control of the sea.

Those who date back to the first war will remember the terrible days of 1916 and 1917 when the German submarine campaign brought Germany close to victory.

Not only were the Allistic lanes being cut, but ships in many other parts of the world.

Hitler for a time was able to build submarines at a record pace.

Early in 1942, the Axis powers shifted their submarine warfare to the Western Atlantic and in 16 months the loss of more than 500 ships was reported. More than 7,000,000 tons of allied shipping was lost.

By the end of the year the German U-boat campaign was the major threat to allied victory.

The U-boat menace was curbed by a combination of expedients. These included improved methods of detecting the submersibles, and the use of special boats and aircraft to track down the subs and destroy them with depth bombs.

As far as the American navy is concerned, our information is that the United States is taking full precautions to protect sea lanes in event of war. It must be assumed that Britain is doing the same.

Smiles

"My husband says he can't abide to play bridge with a man who get the talking out of their system, then I always say part of the fun of playing bridge is just getting together and learning all the news. Is it true, girls, that a family can't have a cat?" Her old one is only three years old. What's that? Two families living in a flat should do! Is that a command, or can I pass if I have a boy? Say, have you seen my husband, Jack Smith? My sister says she saw him and that good-looking secretary of his lunching at the Hidden Cave last week. Jack is the best catch in town, and he must be at least 30 years old. They say he's making lots of money. What. You bid two spades, partner. Oh, dear, everyone has been talking. I've forgotten. Let's review the bidding."

"Well, our stuff me with little smiles," said the Newsie, "that don't take the weddin cake."

"Why, our stone me sideways. After all, we are there the first Russian tinned crab they're again to ship the whole perishin lot out America."

"Cor stone me sideways, too," "According to the papers," said the Sweep, "this are crab is wasted on the rich people in luxury hotels in New York. Cor strike a light, you'd a-thought they'd had enough on their plates already."

"You would at all."

"No wonder they ad the Ministry of Fulsome points in."

"No wonder."

"If it ad been for us I suppose the black market boys could ave taken their grub first."

"Quite likely."

"But when it comes to scrapin up a few dollars it's a different matter."

"Too true."

"Still, it's nice to know American millionaires ain't goin short of nothink."

"Very nice."

"I daresay you get tired of steaks and pork chops after a time."

"I daresay you do."

"Nothink like a bit of crab to tickle up your appetite."

To some he's rather wuffy and quaint.

"A demon of unmentionable cruelty."

If he's Anti-Christ or angel, we call him Uncle Joe.

He's always "Mr. Stalin" in The Times.

Forward Glance

The year is 1970. The scene is outside the village post office.

The actual state of the country is that free medical service and the advance of medical science have produced the middle-aged community predicted by H. G. Wells.

In fact, it is more than a middle-aged community. It is a senile community.

The expectation of life has advanced recently from 70 years, on whom the main burden of taxation falls, have either retired on pensions which exempt them more than the maximum intissed wage or have defied the new emigration laws and fled the country.

They reckon there be no money for us this week," says the first centenarian. "Nor next week, nor the week after."

"There must be money for our pension," says the second centenarian. "Stands to reason."

"No money for no pensions nor nothing. They do say the young fellows won't earn no more than £3 a week because if they earn £3 a week they'll have to take it away from um. To pay pensions for the likes of us."

"Drat um, drat um, that's what I say, drat um."

"Five undred on um escaped last week. Five undred on um. All good workers, too."

"Where they gone to?"

"Dunno. Canada maybe. They showed themselves away aboard the ship, the young varmints."

"Drat um, that's what I say, drat um."

"One on um was arning thirty pound a week and a-paying twenty seven pound in good tax money, all for the likes of us. But he couldn't see no sense in it."

"Time was when boys looked after the old uns. But they don't do it no more."

"They do say it's because the government makes it orf um stead of letting um be to mind their own business. The boys was better after us 'cos us knew they was a-mindin their own business."

"Drat um all the same. That's what I say. Drat um."

"They do say with all this yere doctorin and all the many of us old uns and not enough of them young uns to pay taxes. So all they wants to do is a job of work to keep the streets of £3 a week with no taxes and no head worries."

"Drat um . . . Are they a-shuttin up the post office?"

"The postmistress is shuttin up the post office. There's no tax money to pay her wages."

"And who's the young chap a-sweepin orf the road?"

"That's the income tax man. There's no tax money to pay his wages, neither. So he's a-sweepin orf the roads."

"Drat um all, that's what I say. Drat um all."

Paws Across The Sea

Will Little, the cat, sat in the United States at the invitation of her admirer, Manhatter Mouser. Her owner, Edward Tom and Americat play cat!

When the Mouser was in London last month Little realized all his urgent invitations to go around the night clubs of Broadway. She wanted to remain the simple, unsophisticated cat rose people read about in books.

Here is the last letter airmailed by the Mouser:

Fifty-leggy dear: How long do I have to wait before I see you stepping down the gangway of the Queen Mary with them dainty whisker paws and them million dollar legs?

Listen, honey cat. Getting across is not easy.

Can't don't need no dough or no passports. All you gotta do is to Hitch-hike to Southampton, walk aboard and tell the passengers, and be welcomed by the head chef with the best leftovers that money can't buy.

Four days of luxury and here you are only a mile or two from Broadway, the centre of civilization, and the world's best. Not every alsheen overflowing with milk and honey, which is the dainty tidbit for ladies and tender loins and what have you.

All the swellest guys are here and all the richest dolls, but none as swell as we are, cat, my sister pose when she steps along the sidewalks with her fourfeet.

Honey baby, honey lamb, honey chile, you sure will knock 'em all cold on Broadway and in Central Park with them big innocent English eyes and that swell chassis.

We ain't seen innocent eyes on Broadway since the Civil War.

Hurry, my sugar cat, my honey pose . . .

DISTRICT NEWS IN BRIEF

Electric Project Serves 40 Farms

WETASKIWIN, March 9.—Wang Rural Electrification Association held a big celebration Friday evening, the occasion being the turning on of electric power and light to more than 40 farms in the district. Power followed the first pole being set in the ground by just three months.

The hall was more than filled with the 200, or so, who gathered for the cafeteria style banquet, entertainment and dance. Officials of the Calgary Power Company from Calgary and Wetaskiwin were present, as well as Mayor Morley Mercer, representing the city of Wetaskiwin, Wm. Drasyer, president of the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade and F. J. Fitzpatrick, Edmonton, provincial supervisor of co-operatives.

Morris Jevne, president of the association was chairman and introduced Fred Gale, Calgary Power Company official of Calgary in charge of rural electrification. Mr. Gale complimented the association for the manner in which they had assisted in the development and gave that as one of the primary reasons such excellent time had been made. Mr. Fitzpatrick told his audience there were now 50 such rural organizations in the province, though not all had yet received power.

SPOKE FOR WETASKIWIN

Mr. Drasyer brought the good wishes of the Wetaskiwin Board of Trade and Mayor Merner conveyed the assurance from the city that Wetaskiwin was interested in all that pertained to the welfare of their rural neighbors.

OFFERS HAD REACHED $2,000

Bill's $4,000 Mink Coat Finally Sells for $500

WESTLOCK, March 9.—Remember Bill Pollard's mink coat?

Bill won a $4,000 mink coat at the B. C. Live Animals Exposition in Vancouver, last November.

Recently, he sold it. But he didn't sell it for $4,000. Nor for 3 or 2 thousand dollars.

He sold it for $500 as the best price he could obtain for it.

At the time he won the mink apparel, people flashed bills and cheques before his eyes and went as high as two thousand dollars in bidding for the benny. Bill hoped to better their offer but, after making the rounds of furrier after furrier, he finally gave in and sold, with the girl friend's consent, the coat for $500.

"Seems mink coats are a drug on the market," said Bill with a nostalgic yearning for the days of yore when every secretary with an eye to the boss's future had her eye on a mink coat.

One interesting angle from the coat lies in the number and type of "c'mup and see me sometime" letters he received, all specifying that he bring the coat with him.

BOARD TO PUBLISH MONTHLY NEWSPAPER

SEXSMITH, March 9.—"Sexsmith and District Board of Trade Bulletin" will resume publication this month. A monthly newspaper in vest-pocket size, the Bulletin was published monthly last year, and besides replacing the old postcard notice of meetings, carried stories on Board of Trade activities.

Cost of publication this year will be realized from the sale of advertising space to the merchants. The Bulletin is sent to all members of the Board of Trade, besides all prospective members, and to boards of trade in surrounding towns. The tiny paper consists of four three-column pages, and is printed on coated newsprint.

Dr. J. R. McCrum is president of the Board of Trade this year and Ivan Novlesky secretary.

Grain Clubs Start In High Prairie Area

HIGH PRAIRIE, March 9.—Paul Gibeau, district agriculturist of Falher, was in town on March 3, making his regular Thursday visit here to meet the farmers and discuss their problems. He announces that the Wheat Club was organized in January and a Barley Club was formed March 3, with E. W. Pratt, leader for the 30 members.

Each member of the Wheat Club will receive, for planting, three bushels of Saunders wheat, which was developed at Beaverlodge and recommended in the Peace area for earliness and good yield.

Each Barley Club member will receive six bushels OA barley, a feed as well as a malting barley, which has strong straw, high yield and is early maturing.

Dairy Calf Club, with Harry Godberson, Leader, has 16 members and each member expects to receive a calf, good grade Holstein, about the middle of March for which he pays $20. These calves will be shown as yearlings then later kept for milk cows.

Club members are taught how to feed calves and how to judge stock. Mr. Gibeau states that a definite program for Agriculture for the High Prairie Area will be announced soon.

Soft Ice Stops Botha Bonspiel

BOTHA, March 9.—Warm weather prevented the completion of Botha's 21st annual bonspiel. Finals were played in two competitions, but two games are left to decide the winners in the other two. Twenty-four rinks took part, 14 local rinks, seven from Stettler and three from Gadsbury.

The Keri rink of Botha is undefeated with one game left to play. In the Grand Challenge Keri defeated Venner of Stettler to go into the finals, while in the other bracket the C.P.R. rink of Botha defeated Menzies of Botha. Keri defeated Cruickshank of Botha to take first in the Merchants with Venner of Stettler taking third and Arnold of Gadsby fourth.

In the Citizens, Kempf of Botha meets Drever of Stettler with Allen and L. Johnson of Stettler taking the other two prizes.

Allen defeated Seyer of Botha to take first with Kempf and Greenlee of Botha third and fourth in the club competition.

The Ladies Aid served meals and lunches during the spiel.

Board of Trade Re-Organizes

GRAND CENTRE, March 9.—Grand Centre Board of Trade met at the home of O. Pearson to elect officers for the new term.

A. Mulkay was chosen president, with E. Kenitz vice-president, Mrs. E. Claybert is secretary-treasurer.

One of the aims of the board is to urge completion of the railroad as far as Grand Centre. Finishing of the bridge is another.

Ten renewed their membership at the meeting.

Killam Pastor Receives Purse

KILLAM, March 9.—Approximately 35 members of the Pentecostal Church assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Schultz recently to bid farewell to their pastor, Rev. C. R. Lindgren and Mrs. Lindgren. Most of the evening was spent in sing-song.

Clifford Larson on behalf of the congregation presented the guests of honor with a purse. The lady members assisted the hostess in serving lunch.

Mr. Lindgren who was pastor for the past two months is being succeeded by Rev. Britton of Bentley.

Weather Halts Hockey Tourney At Lloydminster

LLOYDMINSTER, March 9.—Extremely warm weather of the past week-end played havoc with the annual Lloydminster and District Board of Trade Hockey Tournament held in the border town on Saturday of last week. The annual event brought a record number of citizens of the surrounding district to the town, the arena being filled both for the afternoon and evening.

The ice was so badly cut up after the days play that it was decided at night to postpone all further games in the senior event till a later date, in the hope that spring has not yet finally arrived. The midget competition was finished in water and slush, the final games looking more like English field hockey than Canadian ice hockey.

Maidstone midgets won the six team competition defeating the popular Neilburg entry in the final after taking the local lads out in the semi-final. Neilburg won their semi-final from Dewberry, another contender. In the opening round play was Dewberry 3, Hillmond 1, Maidstone 5, Marwayne 2, Lloydminster 3, Waseca 1.

Clubs remaining in the senior event for Board of Trade Trophy are Rivercourse, Indian Creek, Dewberry and Maidstone. The play during the day in this event brought the following results. Hillmond 2, Rivercourse 2; Neilburg 9, Fort Pitt 1; Rivercourse 1, Neilburg 0; Indian Creek 1, Kitscoty 0; Lashburn defaulted to Dewberry; Maidstone 2, Earlie 0.

Concern is now felt for the possible condition of the arena for this Friday and Saturday when the Elks have their Annual Carnival scheduled for the arena. Multiple Sleeping Blamed for Polio

Eskimo Epidemic Started By Migrating Native

OTTAWA, March 9.—(CP)—The first poliomyelitis epidemic to strike Canada's 8,000 Eskimos originated with a native named Tutu and was aided by the Eskimo habit of naked, multiple sleeping.

Dr. P. E. Moore, director of the Indian and Eskimo health services of the national health department, and Dr. A. F. W. Peart, the department's chief of epidemiology, told the reporters at a press conference yesterday.

PEAK NOW OVER

1. The epidemic, which has taken 13 lives and led to quarantine of an area of 40,000 square miles, is over its peak and offers unusual opportunities for study of a disease whose mysteries still baffle medical science. These studies now are going on in laboratories at Winnipeg, Toronto and Ottawa.

2. Its spread, starting last September, when the native Tutu left the army base at Churchill, Man., for the north, has been traced and is believed to be founded on a particularly virulent form of the paralysing virus.

3. Its ravages may force the government to establish a permanent camp or base to care for the victims.

STARTED AT CHURCHILL

The doctors said a case of polio had appeared at Churchill last August, a month before Tutu went north in two settlements where the disease broke out in a month or so. It was carried from there to strike hardest at and around Chesterfield Inlet, settlement 200 miles north of Churchill. Eventually 60 of the 275 Eskimos within a 200-mile radius of Chesterfield Inlet contested signs of the disease and 36 of them were paralyzed.

Tutu, ironically enough, never became ill.

The spread was aided by the Eskimo habit of sociability. The natives travel a lot and they call on all their friends and they all sleep together, naked, under the same fur. The whites have tried at times to discourage this but they have come to realize that it's fairly hopeless; the practice is part of the pattern of survival. The Eskimo has worked out down the centuries.

Dr. Peart was one of a five-man medical team which flew into Chesterfield last week. One intriguing angle of the outbreak, he said, was that it struck in the heart of the winter whereas polio usually hits in the warm period of the year. This in itself was a new angle to study since this is the first known major polio epidemic to strike a northern area.

Gold Miners Will Take Strike Vote

VANCOUVER, March 9.—(CP)—A strike vote will be taken April 12 by more than 1,200 gold miners in five British Columbia operations and one at Yellowknife, NWT, it was disclosed last night.

A resolution to that effect was passed by delegates to the annual district convention of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (CIO).

Affected in British Columbia are the Bralorne, Pioneer, Taku, Wells and Silbak-Premier workings.

Original demands of a 25-cent-an-hour wage boost were made to bring gold miner wages equal with base metal workers who now receive about $2 a day more.

Russ Return Ship But No Shore Leave

LEWES, Del., March 9.—(AP)—Russians steamed into United States coastal waters yesterday aboard a lend-lease American cruiser but refused to come ashore.

An estimated 800 officers and men are aboard the cruiser Milwaukee, renamed Murmansk by the Russians.

They will return the 7,050-ton warship to the United States Friday, then board the freighter Molotov and return to the Soviet Union.

Inside Hollywood

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD.—(AP)—Paramount seems to be zooming ahead in the race to get a jet flight picture on the screen.

"Jet Fighter" is getting high priority on Alan Ladd's busy schedule. He may start the film after he finishes "After Midnight." Meanwhile RKO's "Jet Pilot" is still in the scripting stage and no starting date is announced for Warner's "Jet."

There's an interesting problem in connection with the jet subjects. Air pictures have featured the dramatic power of roaring engines and vibrating planes. First-hand accounts indicate jet flight is something like sitting in space. Apparently there's not much drama in a whoosh.

GABLE AND GODDARD

Clark Gable's vehicle being whipped up by Preston Sturges sounds like a doll. Clark will play a tycoon who suffers a breakdown and is told by his doctor to slow down. So Clark goes to a small town for a rest. He ends by reorganizing the town and working as hard as ever.

Paulette Goddard has been dropping hints that she'd like to play the dumb mistress in "Born Yesterday." It would mean a repeat with Brod Crawford, who is appearing with her in "Anna Lucasta."

MGM roasted out its stars again for a portrait by a national magazine. To avoid any protocol, the stars were seated alphabetically. "That Gable is always the middle of any picture," said Spencer Tracy, "He picked the right initial."

TWO SMART MEN

John Payne has a smart plan to fit current conditions. "Whenever I sign for a picture, I promise to help exploit it by hours or any other means," he tells me. That's wise in these times when producers are more conscious of exploitation.

Charles Coburn keeps busy enough at 71. He goes from "The Western Story" at U-I to "Everybody Does It" at 20th-Fox, to "Bodies and Souls" at MGM. Later is a father-son doctor story starring Glenn Ford and June Allyson.

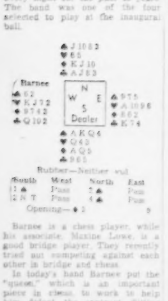
Second Hand High Beats This Contract

While in Washington recently in behalf of War Orphans Scholarships, Inc., I had dinner in the Blue Room at the Shoreham Hotel. Sure enought, there was Bartee Breeskin leading the orchestra. Bartee has set some kind of record for a band. He has been playing in the Blue Room or the Terrace at the Shoreham every night for the past 16 years. The band was one of the four selected to play at the inaugural ball.



Barnee is a chess player, while his associate, Maxine Lowe, is a good bridge player. They recently tried out competing against each other in bridge and chess.

In today's hand Barnee put the "squeeze," which is an important piece in chess, to work to help him defeat the contract. Sitting in the West, Barnee spotted the three of diamonds. Declarer won the trick in his own hand with the queen, took three rounds of trumps, then played the rest of suits.

Disregarding the rule of "second hand low," Barnee made the unusual play of the queen of clubs on the nine. Declarer went up with dummy's ace, ruffed back to his hand with a diamond and led another club.

When Barnee played the deuce, declarer naturally put on the jack from dummy, figuring that Barnee had split his honors. But East won the trick with the king, and now there was no way to stop Barnee and his partner from getting two club tricks and two heart tricks to defeat the contract.

At the peak, the 1946-47 school year, 40,000 Canadian war veterans were registered in special courses and regular classes of our universities.

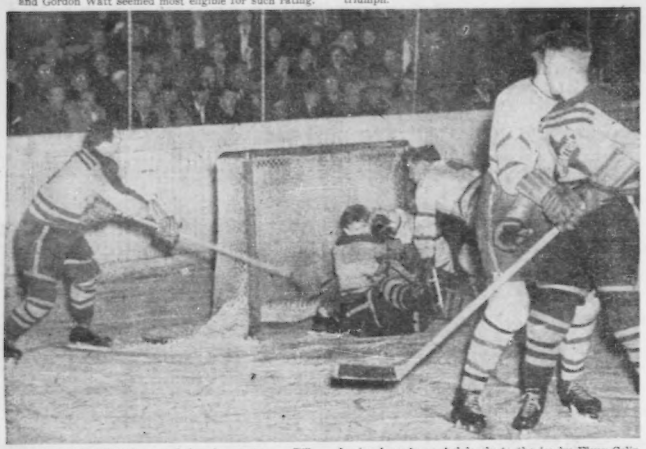
Flyers' Cup Defence Gets Good Start

THREE MUSKETEERS became four when time came to figure out the list of Flyer heroes as Calgary Stampeders were scuttled by a 5-2 count at the icehouse last night. From left, Doug Lane, Keith Woodall, Bill Maher and Gordon Watt seemed most eligible for such rating.

Lane, Maher and Watt fired the goals that spelled victory while Woodall turned in a fine performance in the Edmonton cage. Flyers went at a goal-a-period clip to triumph.



HE DOESN'T SHOOT, nevertheless he scores . . . Bill Maher, smooth-skating Flyer winger, came around from behind the Calgary net late in the first period to open the scoring. All Maher had to do was nudge the puck into a wide-open net, Russ Dertell, Calgary goalie, having been borne helplessly to the ice by Flyer Colin Kilburn and 'Chuck' Millman of his own side. Down front Stamps' Denny Huddleston blocks Morey Rimstad out of the play.

Better Netminding Proves Flyer Edge

In a sense better netminding paid off for the Candian champions of a season back. Woodall might easily have had a shutout but for the fact that on the two occasions Stamps managed to get the puck in behind him most of his teammates, as well as the opposition attackers, had him hedged in tightly and he couldn't break through the ring to get a couple of rebounds.

At the other end Dertell had a shaky time of it.

For instance Maher, an opportunist of the first water as he went about the business of turning on the red light, slipped the puck into an open net.

Dertell, meanwhile, had gone down under the combined weight of teammate 'Chuck' Millman and Flyers' Colin Kilburn and was powerless to do anything about circumventing the Maher manoeuvre.

LANE MADE IT 2-1

Lane 'fanned' th e Stampeder watch-dog with a steaming drive from 25 feet as he again sent the locals ahead at 15:15 of the second stanza. As for Watt's payoff goal, this came off a low 40-foot drive that caught the inside corner along about the time the customers were settling back in the pews, resigned to an overtime session.

Last night's fast-moving encounter ranked as one of the cleanest of the season, despite the fact that referees Danny Cox and Stan Swain saw fit to dish out nine minor penalties, including five to the winners.

As though to keep the situation well under control the officials ruled with a stern hand. Nothing even approaching an open break in relations cropped up anywhere along the line.

Both teams tended strictly to business.

It wasn't until the 18th minute of the opening heat that Maher hit the score sheet with the first goal. He worked around from behind to slide the rubber into a yawning cage.

RIMSTAD 'FED' LANE

At 7:41 of the middle period Devieg knotted the count by backhanding Scott's rebound into the freeze into a likewise open net. Then at 15:19, with both teams playing a man short, Lane took a relay at the Calgary blue line from Morey Rimstad, skated a few strides and lined one to the top corner behind Dertell to give Flyers the edge once more.

The Scott-Devieg combination was back again in the last minute of the frame to make it 2-2, Scott being the marksman this time.

Flyers enjoyed their widest territorial edge of the game in the early stages of the last period, but it wasn't until the past five-and-a-half way mark that Watt finally came through with the winner.

The Flyer puck hook loose down the middle, crossed over into Calgary territory, and then banged a way with a long drive that completly fooled Dertell.

In the remaining minutes Stampeders turned on the heat but Woodall and his defence stood firm and the klaxon went finally.

Second contest is set for Thursday, also at the Arena.

Manitobans, B.C. Keep Sheet Clean

By Jack Sullivan

HAMILTON, March 9.—(CP)—Continued dominance of Manitoba and British Columbia featured the Canadian curling championship fourth-round yesterday.

The B.C. rink, skipped by Reg Stone, stayed in line with Ken Watson's high-class Winnipeg quartet but a fighting rink from the little town of Blackie in southwestern Alberta almost stole the show. B.C. beat the the Albertans 11-10 but it was somewhat of a lucky two-rock 12th-end that gave the west coast foursome its fourth victory in as many sta rts to tie Manitoba at the top of the standing.

Watson's rink, favorite to take the title won last year by Theo (Frenchy) D'Amour's Trail, B.C. rink, defeated Northern Ontario's hard-rock miner outfit 15-9.

Race for leadership between Manitoba and B.C. is likely to continue until the two rinks meet in the ninth and final round Thursday night. Ontario's rink, skipped by 63-year-old Pete Gilbert of Chatham, with a 3-1 record is considered the only other quartet with a chance.

The talk around Hamilton last night was about the Blackie outfit.

Given little chance against the powerful B.C. club, the Albertans went into the 12th end one up but Stone counted for an 11-10 win.

Prince Edward Island, which hasn't been any shucks in the curling game in dominion competition, bowed 18-10 to Ontario in the fourth round, but members of the east coast rink, skipped by Ross Cruikshank, at least have something to boast about.

P.E.I. representatives in the title hunt since 1936 have chalked up only 12 victories in 94 starts and two have been scored this year against Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Caps Drub Leafs 9-4 To Go One Up In Playoffs

REGINA, March 9.—(CP)—Regina Caps went one game up in their best-of-five Western Canada Hockey league semi-final series with Lethbridge Maple Leafs last night, scoring freely to dump Leafs 9-4.

Caps indicated their strength early in the game, scoring twice within the first four minutes and dominating play throughout most of the encounter. They held Leafs scoreless in the first period while scoring twice, added three more in the mid-frame and exploded for four in the third.

The second was the best session for the struggling Lethbridge crew, which counted three times, getting its fourth early in the third.

Sweeney Schriner's three goals was tops for the home club, an assist adding to his point total. Alf McDougall came through with two goals, while singles were credited to Bill Kyle, Harvey Barnes, Red Tilson and Chuck McCullough.

Joe Fisher, with Regina last season but coach of the Medicine Hat Tigers of the Western Canada Junior Hockey league this year, played his second game for Caps and turned in four assists to be outstanding playmaker of the night.

Don Menzies scored half of Lethbridge's four-goal total, Roy Hexamer and Gib Nordin getting the others.

The crowd of 4,500 watching Regina's scoring exhibition took exception to the officiating almost throughout the entire match, at times showing their disapproval by throwing programs on the ice.

Second game of the series will be played here Thursday.

McDougall started the scoring at the 1:25-mark of the opening period on a slap shot from just outside the crease. Two minutes later Schriner counted and Caps had a lead they never relinquished.

Caps rapped home three goals within the first five minutes of the second period, Bill Kyle, Schriner and Tilson netting. Leafs drew a life at the 8:30 mark to temporarily disorganize the Regina club. Taking advantage of the break the visitors counted twice more before Caps' defence tightened sufficiently to stave off further damage.

McCullough was in the penalty box when the third period started and Lethbridge took advantage of Caps' short-handed situation to get its fourth goal, Menzies counting on a relay from Simpson and Slobodian. Bert after that it was a breeze for the passing plays of the Reginans.

LINE-UP

Lethbridge: McMahon; Slobodian, Boorman; Kirkpatrick; Menzies, Simpson, Subs: Latonic, Hall, Hexmer, Harwood, Gibson, Nordin, Evans, Taggart.

Regina: Bentley; Myles, Gus Kyle, Bill Kyle; McDougall, Hauck, Subs: Hill, McCullough, Schriner, Swanson, Brown, Tilson, Barnes, Bertie.

Officials: Bob Marshall and Joe Cattini.

GIVES WOODALL A LIFT

Kreller's Back Pat Proves Good Medicine

HEY, WHAT'S THIS? . . . No cauliflower ears, no puffed eyelids? So far middleweight Bernie Olsen, San Francisco battler who meets Eddie (Bolo) Halligan at the Stock Pavilion Friday, is about as unmarked facially as a professional fighter of 14 months can expect to be.

Last thing Elmer Kreller did before heading for the bench as the puck was dropped to start the game was bike back and offer Goalie Keith Woodall a word of encouragement . . . Opening period featured close cheering for the greater part . . . At the most Woodall and Dertell weren't tested more than three or four times apiece . . . Brownridge had Stamps' best chance of the session but Woodall refused to be outdoored and both ing came of it.

* * *

Big Bud MacPherson, who has learned to patrol the front of the Flyer cage like a policeman does his beat, stood out as the locals stayed off determined Calgary power-plays while Doug Lane served a couple of penalties in the opening 20-minutes . . . Just when it seemed a spark might touch-off the dynamite in the Stamp pressure play the hefty rearguard would come up with the rubber and bat it to safety.

* * *

Coach Marty Burke brought his Cowboys to town via aircraft and the southern Albertans headed homeward right after the contest . . . "Home at bed by nine o'clock" was the boast of Bob Mamini, Calgary sportswriter, who was travelling with the "enemy."

* * *

Harvey (Red) Young, injured defenceman, and Bernie (The Forgotten Man) Bathgate, took in the proceedings from the confines of the Edmonton players' bench . . . Flyer defence combination of MacPherson-Lane will likely be "broke away" with respect to Stamps' pair of second period goals . . . Stan Devieq, who took on like a champion to remind all once again that he once worked the right wing trick for Flyers, was among the hardest-knocking puckstars in action.

* * *

It was like old times to see Doug Lane pick the top corner as he beat Dertell for Flyers' second goal. Not long after he had unloosed his blistering payoff drive the burly rearguard had another crack from well out . . . This time he tried a change-of-pace, dragging one along the ice that just went by the owner, with Dertell out of position.

Dertell claimed Gordon Watt's winning drive was deflected out of his reach . . . Actually the Stampeder netminder appeared somehow to 'lose' the shot, although there was little blocking it from his view . . . Devieq was best for the visitors, with Stamps' 'big' line of 'Red' Hunter, Dune Grant and Johnny Millard no part of a factor.

* * *

MacPherson, Lane, Watt, Morey Rimstad, Freddy Smitten and Bill Maher, along with Woodall, of course, looked like Frank Currie's top workmen . . . 'Bing' Merlak played aggressively throughout, also turned in a useful short . . . Th3 series won't go more than four games, with Flyers scheduled to take it all off last night's fine start.

Juniors Set Tongues To Wagging

It doesn't happen very often that what goes with the Flyers, particularly at playoff time, takes a back seat along Jasper Avenue or in the spots where the Monday morning quarterbacks get together to shoot the breeze.

But yesterday, even though the Allan cup kings were poised to go in against Calgary's Cowboys within a few hours, the chatter centred largely on the EAC-Maple Leafs junior puck series. And to a somewhat lesser, if nevertheless, gratifying degree in the eyes of promoter Gene Mason his scheduled Friday night 10-rounder at the Cow Palace, headlining Bernie Olsen and Eddie (Bolo) Halligan, was coming in for its share of lip service.

No one was suggesting—except possibly the men saddled with the heavy task of trying to make ends meet financially—that anything much had been accomplished when the gamecocks sporting the sweaters of the Leafs and Clubmen ripped off their hockey gloves and went to tossing punches in dock-worker style at the Arena Monday night.

But such outbursts occur once, twice, several times each season the country over. Admittedly, they aren't to be encouraged. Neither, though, is there need for anyone to jump off the bridge through worrying over them.

Payoff Comes At Box Office

Also there was bound to be a payoff at the box-office in the form of a bumper house for the sixth game and a likely SRO gathering for the Saturday finale—should Leafs draw even at three wins apiece.

And this anticipated upsurge in the ticket business naturally was cause for glee on the part of team financiers. They haven't had many fat paydays in the Junior loop since the pre-war seasons. In the meantime expenses have been ballooning all along the line. At least one of the clubs currently operating a franchise in the circuit is a doubtful starter next season—unless the situation improves drastically.

The way the wind is blowing now Leafs-EAC wind-up might play to 15,000 spectators before it's over—providing it goes seven games.

Such a development would result in an unexpected windfall for the participating teams, to say nothing of buttressing the bank accounts of Canadians and South Side, who likewise share in the playoff receipts.

Olsen Fears Halligan Not

As to the Olsen-Halligan mix it appears that right off the former has caught the fancy of local followers of the science of bashed beaks and scrambled think-tanks.

For one thing the San Francisco battler looks no more like a professional pug than does Errol Flynn, champion of numerous one-punch rhubarbs around Hollywood's Nightclub circuit.

But don't let this fool you . . . the young man can scrap. He has, as a matter of fact, stopped fighters over the past year that rate much higher than Halligan.

Furthermore he has absolutely no doubt of his ability to whip the Spokane Negro, awkward style or no.

Halligan, who was sporting at least a junior paunch for his outings against Roddy MacDonald and Billy Pappas, will be a svelte 155 pounds for Olsen. This is close to 10 pounds under the 'ton' he weighed for the first MacDonald tilt.

You see Halligan knows all about Olsen . . . knows for instance that he'll be much in demand along the coast if he catches the nod over the collar-ad from California's Golden Gate area.

Agreed it's difficult to get a line on a prize fight before it comes off. But all signs point to the fact that promoter Mason has something other than a turkey on tap at the Pavilion Friday night.

Charles-Walcott Title Fight Vetoed by Eagan

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—Joe Louis' New York debut as a promoter sold out a midtown restaurant yesterday but the retired heavyweight champion was forced to admit defeat in his first venture here in the promotional field.

Louis said Eddie Eagan, chairman of the New York State Athletic commission, had rejected his request to have the proposed bizzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott bout sanctioned here as for the world's championship.

The Brown Bomber told a large gathering of the press of his meeting with Eagan yesterday morning.

Louis said Eagan was friendly and offered to help me in any way. "The commissioner told me that he could not sanction any one fight as for the world's championship," Louis said.

Abe Greene, commissioner of the National Boxing association, already has given Louis' recently formed International Boxing club permission to name the Charles-Walcott winner the "world's champion."

Louis said he would like to have the blessings of both bodies and didn't relish the idea of dual champions. He said he considered both fight bodies as equally important.

Since Eagan won't sanction the Charles Walcott "title" fight here, it will be held outside this state, probably in Chicago. Louis said he definitely would not fight again. And if he should change his mind—this in answer to a question—he would not consider himself champion but a challenger.

In The Spotlight As Junior Teams Prepare For Battle Tonight

INDEFINITE SUSPENSION was imposed on Eddie Cutts, EAC coach, by the junior loop executive, following a probe into the Leaf-EAC melee Monday.

FOUR SHARP-SHOOTERS of Ted Allard's Maple Leafs, expected to make things plenty hot for EAC's when the two clubs hook up in the sixth game of the best-of-seven City Junior Hockey league final series at the Arena tonight, are pictured here. They are, from left, Jim Stewart, Ken Watson, Bill McNally and Doug Macauley. All know what to do with the puck when in front of the cage. On the go-in tonight, the Clubmen lead the series three games to two. If Leafs should square the series tonight, the final game will be played at the Arena Saturday. If EAC's wrap it up tonight, they will take on Wetaskiwin in the northern Alberta final, opening here Saturday.

IN ALL LIKELIHOOD, Clarence Moher will be in the EAC pilot's seat when the Clubmen take on Leafs tonight. He will replace Eddie Cutts, suspended indefinitely yesterday.

SMITH, HAXBY IMPOSE 'SIN-BIN' RECORD

Referees Cam Smith and Bob Haxby, who handled whistle-tooting chores in the EAC-Maple Leaf junior melee at the Arena Monday night, established what is believed to be a record for the greatest number of minutes in penalties ever dished out in one game in organized hockey.

All told, they handed out 150 minutes in penalties, 110 of these coming during the donnybrook late in the third period.

EAC's lost the game 5-3, but won sin-bin honors hands down. The Clubmen drew 118 minutes, while Leafs were given 32. Of EAC's total, 80 minutes—eight misconducts—were imposed when players left the box to join the free-for-all. Eight five-minute stretches were meted out, six of these coming during the blow-up.

Grant Crowned As Top Point-Getter

Even D. P. McDonald says Calgary Stampeders' Dune Grant won the individual point-getting title in the just-concluded regular Western Canada Hockey league season. And he should know, he is president of the circuit.

And so the veteran winger from Cowtown finally came up with a crown to which he only had been able to come close previously. When Ken (Red) Hunter, a Stamp teammate, walked off with the honor in 1945-1946, 1946-1947 the first years of post-war operation for the loop, Grant was not far behind. And when Flyers' Morey Rimstad turned the trick last season, again he was close up.

This year he was second to no one—he wound up with 39 goals and 40 assists for 79 points, three better than Ab McDougall of Regina, who had a 39-37 mark. Andy Clovechok was the highest of the Flyers, checking in with 41 goals, high for the league, and 37 assists.

Edmonton's Pug Young made sure locals took home another title, highest penalty total, when he wound up with 147 minutes in the sin bin. Doug Lane, also of Flyers, was not far behind as he finished with 130 minutes. Ross Evans, Lethbridge, was next with 124 minutes.

Roy Bentley of Regina was leading goal-keeper by quite a margin over Flyers' Keith Woodall. The youthful Bentley allowed 139 goals past him in the 48-game schedule, while Woodall saw 172 slip into his net. Russ Dertell of Calgary was second on 177 times.

NEW COACH LEADS EAC TONIGHT

Clarence Moher, well-known in puck circles, both locally and 'abroad,' in all probability will take over from the suspended Eddie Cutts as EAC junior coach.

This was announced by Leo LeClerc, EAC hockey director, immediately following the junior executive meeting, which imposed the indefinite suspension on Cutts, late yesterday afternoon.

Sixth game of the best-of-seven City Junior Hockey league final series, between EAC's and Maple Leafs, will be run off at the Arena tonight. Starting time is 8:30 o'clock.

The Clubmen currently lead the series three games to two.

Canucks In Big Comeback To Join Buffs In Final

MOOSE JAW, March 9.—(CP)—Moose Jaw Canucks sprang the biggest upset of the season in the Western Canada Junior Hockey league last night when edging Regina Pats 2-1 to win their best-of-seven semi-final series in four straight games after dropping the first three.

Canucks now will meet Calgary Buffaloes, who won their semi-final series against Lethbridge Native Sons last night, winning four games, losing one and tying one.

Larry Popeing was key man in the Moose Jaw triumph. He scored the only goal of the first period and assisted on the second Canuck counter, which came early in the third from Don Johnston's stick. MacDonald came through with the lone Regina goal, also early in the third.

QUIET GAME

Statistically speaking the game was quiet. In addition to the low score only three penalties were given out. Johnston getting two and Regina's Macneill one.

LETHBRIDGE, March 9.—(CP)—Calgary Buffaloes advanced into the finals by stampeding Lethbridge Native Sons 6-2 here last night.

TWO BIG BURSTS

The smooth-skating Calgary sextet erupted for three goals in the first period from the sticks of Bob Carlson, Cal Oughton and Bobby Hunt. They added another three in the final period by Johnny Michaluk, Ross Tyrrell and Sid Finney after Denny Smith and Howie Milford tallied for Sons in the second.

Smith is an Edmonton product, who played with Wetaskiwin Canadians last year, as did Michaluk.

More Tax Exemptions Are Sought in Sask.

REGINA, March 9.—(CP)—The Dominion government will be asked to exempt from income taxes the 20-cent-a-bushel increase in the price of wheat recently announced by Trade Minister Howe as well as any future payments to farmers from operations of the Canadian Wheat Board.

This was one of 16 resolutions passed here yesterday by 1,200 delegates attending the 44th annual convention of the Saskatchewan association of rural municipalities.

CITE WHEAT AGREEMENT

The resolution said grain growers were estimated to have contributed about $300,000,000 up to the present through "cheap" grain made available to the people of Canada and as a group the grain growers were carrying alone the loss through "cheap" wheat sales under the Anglo-Canadian wheat agreement.

Four other resolutions also dealt with income taxes.

One, aimed at keeping young people on the farm, urged exemptions on the first $1,200 and $2,400 earned by single and married persons respectively. This was amended to include all taxpayers as well as farmers.

EXEMPTION ASKED

The Dominion government will be asked to waive interest payments by farmers from date of filing returns until final assessment.

Another suggested cash donations by ratepayers to road gravel fund and snow clearing be treated as deductions from income. The convention also agreed exemptions be sought for money spent on repairs to dwellings plus allowances for depreciation.

$50 Bonus for All Urged in House

Toronto PC Claims Taxes Enough To Finance Plan

OTTAWA, March 9.—(BUP)—Parliament yesterday heard an opposition member couple a demand for a tax-free national retirement plan with a suggestion that the government give a $50 bonus to every man, woman and child in Canada on the basis of the past year's near-certain $600,000,000 surplus.

"If this government were genuinely and sincerely interested in the problems of old age . . . they would have put on the statute books of this country a plan under which any individual, whether a government employe, an employe of some large company with an approved plan, or anyone else would be able to make a weekly contribution to a national retirement plan," Harry Jackman (PC-Toronto Rosedale) said.

800,000 COVERED

Only some 800,000 Canadians were at present covered by government-approved retirement schemes in industry and the civil service, he said.

"I throw out a challenge to the great life insurance companies of this country to design a plan which will receive government approval whereby the individual who does not come under such a superannuation plan may pay up to five . . . or 10 per cent of his earnings . . ." Jackman went on. He himself is a director of a Canadian insurance firm.

He called on the government to bring in legislation that would speed up the establishment of an all-embracing retirement plan. Any deductions under the scheme, he added, should be tax-free.

". . . The government has accepted the principle of saving before taxation for 'about 800,000' of our people, but it refuses to set up any plan whereby the great majority of our wage earners and others who may want to make some contribution for their old age may receive the same consideration," he said.

The Progressive Conservative MP decried the government policy of high taxes in good years which, he said, would result in a surplus of "the post year of 'no less than' $600,000,000. This would be an amount equal to $50 a head for every man, woman and child in Canada.

BONUS CHEQUES

He suggested the money could be split into some 12,000,000 bonus cheques and used by the people to pay bills, buy a few more "badly needed" items, send children to high school "instead of letting them go off to work" at 15 or 16 years of age, or to take a decent holiday.

The government should pass out the bonuses and say: "Not only have you paid your federal bills, but here are $50 per head rebate."

"It would be very much like four or five Christmases rolled into one," Jackman said.

PREFAB HOUSE SENT TO EIRE

CORK, Eire, March 9.—(AP)—James Mather, who retires next June as manager of a Pinehurst, North Carolina, hotel, wants no housing problem when he settles down in his native Tipperary.

His prefabricated house arrived yesterday in 39 crates aboard the steamship Irish Pine.

Escaped POW Recaptured

MONTREAL, March 9.—(CP)—Officials of the army and RCMP announced here yesterday that a German prisoner-of-war who escaped in Canada three years ago has been captured in a suburban Ville in Baile chemical plant where he was working.

The man was identified as Willie Gottschalk, 28-year-old merchant seaman. Police said he probably will be deported to the Russian-occupied sector of Germany where he lived before the war. Meanwhile, he is being held in Provincial Police headquarters pending advice from Ottawa.

Maj. Charles Rochon, the army's Provost Marshal here, said Gottschalk's capture leaves about 30 more escaped German war prisoners to be rounded up in Canada.

Inspector Wilson Brady of the RCMP declined to discuss details of the German's arrest but it was known that an RCMP officer walked into the chemical plant last night and arrested Gottschalk.

The German escaped from Tillsonburg, Ont., in September, 1946, while he was working as a farm hand. He had been held at a prisoner-of-war camp at Monticth, Ont.

Surveyor Is Dead

PETERBOROUGH, March 9.—(CP)—John Wesley Pierce, a surveyor whose important assignment was on the Manitoba-Ontario dividing boundary, died yesterday, aged 63.

Shareholders to Pay $85 in Home Liability

CALGARY, March 9.—(CP)—Alfred G. Burton of Calgary, liquidator of the affairs of the defunct Home Assurance Company of Canada, today filed statement of claim in Supreme Court for a call of $85 for each share held by the shareholders of the company who have been placed on the list of contributors.

The company's stock register lists 211 shareholders with a total liability of $375,474. The list of contributors is expected to be completed by Mr. Justice H. G. Macdonald later this month.

The company, which dealt in accident and fire insurance, went into liquidation last July when it did not have sufficient capital to carry on its business. Total liabilities were $725,000 at the time of liquidation.

In addition to the liability of shareholders, assets of the company include a deposit of $285,000 held by the Alberta government and a deposit of $50,000 held by the government of Quebec.

Mr. Justice Macdonald recently ordered the deposits transferred to the liquidator. He also ordered that the Alberta deposit be used only for creditors in Ontario and the four western provinces where claims total $350,000. The Quebec deposit will be available to Quebec creditors whose claims total $375,000.

A Mother Writes To The Army

"Dear Major:

"This is just a short note to express the deep thanks my husband and I feel for the way you helped our son in his recent trouble. He has never been a bad boy, but when he left home he fell in with the wrong type of people. We could do very little away in the country as we are, and with not very much money. We hear now that he is back at his job and staying away from his former associates. We know he will continue to do this as long as he can count on the help that he has already received from you. We can never thank you enough as he is our only child. Bless you Major and all the Army workers."

City Wage Dispute Goes To Conciliation

Conciliation proceedings between the City of Edmonton and its electrical workers got underway today at the Civic block.

Recently city council instructed the commissioners to proceed to conciliation and, if necessary, arbitration of the wage dispute.

The electrican workers are seeking a flat 25 cents an hour increase.

The commissioners countered with an offer based on cost-of-living wages since last wage adjustment, which would increase pay rates by six to eight cents according to classification.

This offer was rejected by the workers.

H. E. Bendickson, department of industries and labor, is conciliating the dispute.

Members of YMCA Tollers basketball team, northern Alberta intermediate champions, were guests of the club.

P.E.I. To Continue Margarine Ban

PLAYING in the STREETS

Friendly Skunks Giving Ontario Town Bad Time

CALEDONIA, Ont., March 9.—(CP)—Hundreds of friendly, little skunks are discovering their gregarious instincts are a disadvantage. There's a price on their heads, and the 1,500 residents of this village 10 miles south of Hamilton mean business.

Until the village council announced a $1 bounty for each skunk, the friendly skunks here apparently had things pretty much their own way.

They took nightly strolls down the main street, played in groups in front of the village theatre and were on speaking terms with all the local cats.

"We had to do something," explained Reeve G. A. Blackwell.

The village won't pay for 'outside' skunks. They must be killed on municipal ground, or no dollar. The man who decides on the validity of bounty claims is town foreman William Grynyer who "not only knows who the villagers are, but he knows where the skunks are."

And the skunks, it seems, are everywhere.

A favorite nesting spot is the barn shed of the Methodist church. But the area's skunks have no religious prejudice since the first to be turned in for bounty came from beneath the back veranda of the Roman Catholic rectory.

When council couldn't decide whether a dead skunk was worth $1, the experience of Verna McGregor, hydro employe, settled the matter.

"I was walking along minding my own business," she said. "The skunk was walking along a few yards ahead of me on the main street when all of a sudden he saw me. I think it hadn't as much as said boo."

To this type of argument, Louis Carpenter, veterans skunk catcher retorts: "Why shucks, skunks are as friendly as all get out. They'll walk right up to you and ask to be petted. They've often made themselves right at home on my veranda."

Bad Cheques Net Jail Term

For four months Harold Riedinger, no fixed address, wandered through the province cashing worthless cheques on his way.

This afternoon he set off on another trip. This time to Prince Albert, where he will remain for the next two years in penitentiary.

He had earlier pleaded guilty in court to 20 charges of obtaining money by means of worthless cheques. The amount involved totalled nearly $900.

OIL

Midland Pete Gets Porosity

By Don Flach

Canada's thickest oil pool was extended another ten feet to 160 feet of porous oil bearing rock by tests conducted late yesterday. In a test of the ten-foot interval from interval from 5,513 to 5,523 gas blew at the rate of 305,000 cubic feet per day and 2,370 feet of oil were found in the drill pipe. Another ten feet have been cored to 5,553.

What lies below the area surrounding "wonder well" Schoepp No. 1 may be partially determined by wells now being drilled in the Golden Spike field. It was reported in Edmonton this morning that Midland Petroleums No. 1, six miles north of Schoepp, had encountered nine feet of porosity and oil staining while coring below the 5,105 feet level.

ANGLO-HOME 1 'CLOSE'

Another well being drilled in the vicinity which should help determine what lies in the four miles between Schoepp and the Woodbend field is Anglo-Home Woodbend No. 1 on lsd 16 19-51-26W4. This well entered the D2 at about 5,065 feet, found the section to 5,075 tight and is now testing the next 16 feet.

Imperial Woodbend No. 16 another mile and one-half to the east and south is already preparing to take production from the D3. Devon-Leduc Stony Plain No. 1, five miles northeast of Schoepp is looking for the D3 below 5,270 feet.

Arrangements have been completed between Alminster Oils Limited and Regent Drilling Co. to drill three wells north and west of Provost. First of the wells is to be located on lsd 14, 35-41-w4.

18 FOOT POROSITY

Stanolind Ellscott No. 1 has confirmed 18 feet of excelent porosity between 2,457 and 2,477 feet. It is restoring circulation at 2590 feet where further porosity is indicated.

Anglo-Black Diamond, in the news last week for its attempts to obtain production from the upper porous zone of the Medison below 9,000 feet with successive acid treatments is now closed in for several days.

Leduc Calmar No. 1, after reaming the hole is ready to again start coring in the D2. Several good indications of oil and gas have been obtained from this well located two and one-half miles southeast of the Leduc field.

OKALTA 6 AT 5,428

Okalta Leduc No. 6 is now bottomed ata 5,428 feet, and is now running two drillstem tests to determine best depth to set casing.

Imperial Leduc No. 151 has established initial potential of 2,274 barrels daily. No. 165 recovered no gas and 45 feet of drilling mud in a test of the Lower Cretaceous from 4,213 to 4,225 feet while No. 171 two miles east and south got a gas flow at the rate of 2,000,000 cubic feet daily from the same formation at interval 4,289 to 4,395 feet along with 80 feet of oil cut mud and 10 feet of gassy water.

TODAY'S DEPTHS

Anglo-Home Woodbend—5,140; Anglo-Home Redwater 7—3,074; Anglo-Home Redwater 8—3,043; Home Millarville 34—7,882; Home Millarville 35—5,263; Home Leduc 13—4,845; Home Leduc 20—3,947; Leduc Calmar—5,389 Coring; B.C. Spirit River—8,876 drilling; Armena 2—4710 drilling; Bon Accord—4,131 drilling; Pibroch—3,863 drilling; D.S.T. from 3,769 to 3,814, valve open 27 minutes recovered 120 feet mud and 60 feet sulphur water, to continue drilling. Whitemud—4,363 coring, D.S.T. from 4,340 to 363, valve open 30 minutes and recovered 200 feet mud and water; Gibbons—3,607 reaming and coring; Pigeon Lake—6,414 coring.

METAL PRICES REACH PEAK

TORONTO, March 9.—(CP)—A mixture of good and bad signs for metals is seen by J. P. De Wet, secretary of the Manitoba Chamber of Mines, as outlined in an address to the annual meeting in Toronto of the Prospectors and Developers Association.

In regard to prices, he commented:

"Opinion seems to be that they have reached their peaks and that lower prices for copper, lead and zinc are likely.

"The Truman administration in the United States is known to consider that zinc and lead prices are too high and if they should go higher price controls are likely to be imposed.

"Copper is the least vulnerable of the three, since it is relatively scarcer than the other two."

Lead Price Cut Hits Base Metals

Smelters Paces Lower Trend; Golds Are Weaker, Oils Firm

TORONTO, March 9.—(CP)—Base metals turned downwards on the Toronto Stock Exchange today following news of a two-cent price cut in lead by major United States producers. Golds also slipped in the light action as senior and junior producers backed down from recent gains. Industrials and western oils held firm. Volume was about 675,000 shares.

Cosolidated Smelters led the downward trend in base metals as several issues touched new lows. Most of the decline was confined to the first hour and slight recovery attempts later in the session failed.

Senior golds dipped fractions and juniors showed losses ranging up to 10 cents.

Steels showed a slightly weaker trend on the industrial groupings. Foods were mixed and liquors easier. Manufacturing industrials firmed.

Okalta touched a new high at $1.70 in western oils but then dipped slightly.

Fire Forces Odd Dress For Employes

Although a fire raged in the building next door, stenographers at the H. H. Cooper Co., Ltd, 10221 104 Street, were bundled up in their fur coats today.

Reason for the rather unusual working costume was that the heating plant of the Northern Hardware building, scene of last night's and today's fire, supplies heat to both premises.

Cooper Company clerks whose duties carry them to the basement also had unusual office garb today. They had to don rubber boots to wade through the several inches of water which had penetrated from next door.

BOND MARKET

MONTREAL, March 9.—(CP)—Trading continued slow on the bond market here today with the bulk of interest centred on a new city of Vancouver issue. No changes were reported in all sections.

In his report to shareholders, president J. M. Pritchard said that plans for the building of a refinery at Edmonton were being studied following recent discovery of new oil pools at the Leduc and Redwater oil fields in that area.

London Stocks

LONDON, March 9.—(Reuters)—As Britain's budget day draws nearer, the event already has cast its shadow over the London stock exchange.

The fading hopes of taxation relief continue to bring in sellers. Prices today show irregular movements and the gains and losses recorded were small.

Mainly the trend was to slightly lower levels but a slight technical rally, engendered by some bear covering, lifted tobaccos, building shares and some of the miscellaneous leaders. Store shares were in small demand.

The undertone of markets generally remains soft and pessimism as to their future course continued.

Oils opened dull but showed scattered improvements following small selective support.

Slight dullness was uppermost in foreign rails.

Today was voting day in South African provincial elections and Kaffairs were quietly firm with dealers awaiting results.

Other base metals including coppers and leads were weak.

Fair Shipper Demand Holds Futures Steady

WINNIPEG, March 9.—(CP)—Oats and barley futures prices moved narrowly in a dull trading session today as the Winnipeg Grain Exchange followed closely the trend in coarse grains on American markets.

Modest shipper demand appeared in both oats and barley with some light buying attention attributed to export houses noted in barley. This suggested that a small sale may have been made to an European country.

Rye was just a local and commission house trade. Prices rallied late in the session when offerings showed a tendency to dry up.

The United Kingdom was allocated 300,000 bushels of wheat under Anglo-Canadian export business. Prices of class two wheat dropped two cents.

Chromite Grows In Importance To Dominion

TORONTO, March 9.—(CP)—Don't throw away any dark, heavy mineral without another look—it might be chromite, said Leonard G. Smith, an enthusiast on the subject, addressing the Prospectors and Developers Association in Toronto today.

To date, Canada has developed only small tonnages of chromite of the required grade and quality. But, says Mr. Smith, many localities in Canada and the United States have conditions favorable to its occurrence.

Chrome is big business. In 1948 the United States imported more than 1,500,000 tons, mostly in a crude state, valued at about $50,000,000. It is used for alloys in the steel industry.

It was first discovered in Canada in the vicinity of Lake Memphremagog, near Sherbrooke, Que., by Sir William Logan, whom Mr. Smith describes as the father of pre-Cambrian geology, and more simply, as one of the early Canadian "Kilroys." Mr. Smith is a resident engineer with N. A. Timmins Exploration (Ont.) Ltd., and so gets around too.

One of the most recent discoveries is in the Bird River district of Manitoba, in 1942.

Principal world sources are Russia, Turkey, Greece, Rhodesia and the Philippines.

The year was 1865

. . . the chill air was alive with excited shouts as men of Canada and the United States strove against each other on a frozen pond at Black Rock, near Buffalo. Their weapons: stones and brooms and the wild clamour of orders flung into the wind by opposing skips.

This was the 'roarin' game' at its thrilling best . . . the first recorded international bonspiel on this continent. This was sport to strengthen understanding and friendship between men of all races and creeds . . . this was sport to enhance the spirit of friendly rivalry which has helped two neighbouring nations grow to greatness together.

Free nations are these, where the rights of man are guarded by his individual right to the secret ballot . . . where his wish for peace and friendship must be respected by his elected representatives.

When YOU cast your ballot at every election—municipal, provincial, federal—you exercise a duty and privilege planned, worked, and fought for by your forefathers. Your vote protects the future of your children. To fail in this duty is to be less than a good citizen.

NEW SLATE of officers was elected last night at 42nd annual meeting of Camrose Board of Trade, which was attended by 170. Prominent Edmonton businessmen also were present. Front row are Mayor R. H. Hume; Rees Hugh, retiring president Camrose Board; A. L. Burrows, president Edmonton Chamber of Commerce; N. A. Umbach, new president Camrose Board; Dom McKay, secretary Edmonton Chamber; W. E. Wilson, executive. Back row are executive members I. W. Dunbar, E. S. Ferguson, Rome Link, George Golberg, C. J. McFadyen, E. H. Church, Dr. H. H. W. Beyerstein and J. E. Stuart (secretary). W. F. Base Metals Quest Urged By Official

TORONTO, March 9.—(CP)—An intensive program of prospecting and exploration in Canada for base metals was advocated today by G. C. Monture, chief of the mineral resources division of the federal department of mines and resources, in an address to the annual convention of the Prospectors and Developers Association.

Production today, he said, still is from nearly the same mines as in 1939, with the exception of the addition of new Calumet mines and Quebec Manitou in northern Quebec.

NONE OUTSTANDING

"We have had no outstanding discoveries with the exception of Lynn lake in Manitoba and some promising indications at Pine Point, south of Great Slave Lake in the North West Territories.

"The new operations at Mayo in the Yukon may also be added and there are some indications that the Slocan and other areas of British Columbia may again make a substantial production.

The chapter of discovery of base metal ores is most closed in 1925, said Mr. Monture. "True, other mines than those I have mentioned were staked and developed, but for the most part they are adjacent to already-known deposits."

LARGE NEW AREAS

Mr. Monture found a similar situation in the rest of the world, and he considered Canada fortunate because of its large areas of still-unprospected territories.

He believed the demand for base metals will continue at a reasonably high level for some years to come.

Ben Gurion Names Cabinet Asks U.S., Soviet Friendship

TEL AVIV, March 9.—(UP)—A 12-man coalition cabinet pledged to friendship with the United States and the Soviet Union was selected as the first government of Israel today.

Premier David Ben Gurion presented the government for approval at the opening session of the constituent assembly here last night, but several posts still remain to be filled.

GOVERNMENT AIMS

Ben Gurion revealed that he would serve as defense minister as well as premier, and said his government's aims would be:

1. Loyalty to the fundamental principles of the United Nations charter and friendship of all peace-loving states.

2. Efforts to achieve an Arab-Jewish Alliance based on economic, social, cultural and political co-operation with neighboring countries, within the framework of the UN.

3. Freedom for all Jews to enter Israel.

4. Preservation of the country's complete independence and sovereignty.

5. Nationalization of certain public utilities and encouragement of social insurance and a national health plan.

Despite his emphasis on Israel's desire for peace, Ben Gurion said, "If we are attacked, we shall repel the aggressor."

CABINET NAMED

His cabinet, consisting of seven members of his own Mapai Party, three from the Religious Bloc, one from the Progressive Party and one from the Sephardim Party, consists of the following members:

David Ben Gurion, premier and defence minister; Moshe Sharettjn, freight minister; Goldie Mayerson, labor minister; Eliezer Kaplan, finance minister; Bernard Joseph, trade and industry minister.

David Remez, communications minister; Zalman Shazar, education and culture minister; Rabbi Isaac Levin, minister of social welfare; Moshe Shapiro, immigration and interior minister; Rabbi Yehuda Halevi Fishman, minister of religion; Felix Rosenblit, minister of justice; Rechor Shitrit, minister of police.

Ben Gurion said private investments in Israel would be encouraged and that transfer of capital to the new state would be permitted.

Newfie Vets to Gain Millions From Union

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 9.—(CP)—Newfoundland veterans, who had more war service per man than either Canadian or American servicemen, will benefit to the tune of millions of dollars under the terms of Confederation.

Ron Martin, secretary of the Newfoundland World War Veterans Association, said in an interview today 7,235 veterans of the Second World War will be eligible for some $4,500,000 in re-establishment credits alone.

Newfoundland fighting men, who formed two crack artillery regiments and campaigned in Italy, Africa and Western Europe had an average of 60 months' service. They went overseas directly after enlistment and trained with British forces.

The old colony also gave 3,419 men to the Royal Navy and 713 to the Royal Air Force. These figures do not include 1,752 who gave their home addresses as Newfoundland when they signed up with the RCAF and other Canadian outfits.

Mr. Martin, an infantry sergeant in the First World War, said Newfoundland veterans' benefits already in force would be supplemented in practically every field when the island becomes Canada's 10th province March 31.

He said there are about 11,000 veterans from both wars at present in this crag-coasted island of 325,000 persons.

Under the terms of union Newfoundland ex-servicemen will be eligible for any benefits at present in force and will be treated the same as if they were Canadians at the time they enlisted.
